Easier.

U. S. STEEL STOCK ADVANCES TO 190 1-4

Day's News Largely Favorable—Utilities Prominent in Last Hour of Trading on Exchange.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The stock market responded to slightly easier money today with a vigorous upturn, particularly in the metal and motor shares and specialties. More than a score of issues were lifted to new high ground, the old 30 year stock recording a maximum gain of 50 points.
Buying orders rolled into the market in heavy volume during the last hour, the utilities encountering particular favor. Johns-Manville extended its gain to about 21 points, touching 225. Adams Express made an extreme gain of 14 points, and American Smelting of Copper advanced 12 points. The closing was strong. Total sales approximated $100,000.
Call money was in supply at an advance of 6 per cent, which was reflected in the outside market. The money market was unusually active at the end of the month. The inflow of gold from England was resumed for the first time since November, with a shipment of $2,500,000. The Bank of England is expected to raise its re-discount rate before permitting the rate of any considerable amount of gold.
The attitude toward the credit
market in banking circles remained rather gloomy, however, as the money held at 7 1/2 per cent
for the shorter maturities, and bankers acceptance rates in some cases were higher than the discount rate. A rise in the discount rate of one of the interior refiners is regarded as likely any time, paving the way for an advance at New York.
News Largely Favorable.
The day's news was largely favorable, including the second increase in the dividend rate of Chil-
more in three months, placing it at $1.50 annual basis. It was reported that Amcania had offered to exchange 75 shares of its stock
for every 100 shares of Chilmore which does not already hold. M. A.
Cassano Co. resumed dividend on the first preferred stock after a period of four years. An announcement was made that a new development in gasoline prices.
The old du Pont stock touched
its highest point in its history.
The initial trading on the big board,
the new stock first sold at 155 1/2,
and rose to 175. The old stock was stricken from the list Feb. 5.
A number of spot spots cropped
up, and many traders were unwilling to follow the upswing under the present credit conditions. Otis and Case, the two leading stock and almost 15 points, Pillsbury preferred 5, Warner Brothers Pictures 3 1/2, Wright Aero 4 1/2, and 5 points, but rebounded 7 points then closed unchanged.
U. S. Steel Advances.
The profit-taking in U. S. Steel seemed to have been absorbed and it again leaped forward, touching a new high for all time at 190 1/4, up 1 1/4 points. Some of the trading forced ahead, People's Gas jumped 17 points to a record of 240. Johns-Manville
sold above 100, last year,
and rose more than 20 points to 225. Motor Products jumped nearly 10 points in response to reports as to amount of earnings.
Increased buying of the motors
an outstanding feature of the day. General Motors rising 6 1/2 points, while Mack Trucks and Packard advanced about 3 each. Anaconda and Chile mine counted more than 20 points each in the early trading but reacted in the tradition of "selling on the good news."
Copper closed up 2 1/2 points.
American Smelting, Greene Can-
tamin, Kennecott, Nevada, International Nickel and Calumet and Arizona mounted from 3 to 3 1/2 over the day's trading.

cial pages.

U. S. MISSIONARY KILLED IN ARAB AMBUSH IN IRAK

The Rev. Henry A. Bilkert
of Kalamazoo, Mich., Shot by Wahabis While Driving Through Desert.

FORMER MINISTER TO CHINA ESCAPES

Charles R. Crane of Chicago, His Brother and Valet Uninjured—Speed
Away in Autos.

By the Associated Press.
BASRA, Iraq, Jan. 22.—Killing from ambush by Wahabi tribesmen of the Rev. Henry A. Bilkert, missionary to the United States, is expected to have an important effect upon the political fortunes of Iraq, potent of the Arabian desert. One hundred of the tribesmen, who are known for their ferocity, waited in ambush within the Iraq frontier for the American party.

Charles R. Crane of Chicago, former American Minister to China, and Bilkert were in a closed automobile in advance of the party which was going from Basra to Kuwait. As they passed through the desert, Crane noted
there were no horses or camels near. Iraq shepherds had been warned of the approach of the raiding tribesmen and had hurried their flocks to Zubeir, the last Iraq town on the edge of the desert.

There was a sudden burst of rifle fire and Bilkert fell forward dead, a bullet having entered his shoulder and hit the spinal cord. Crane escaped unhurt.

Second Car Unmolested.
A second automobile carrying J.
O. Crane, a brother of Charles,
and Charles Jones, a valet, was not hit. The occupants saw about a dozen armed Wahabis on horseback.
These tribesmen gave chase to the Americans, but were soon outdistanced.

Crane today told his own story of the ambush. He said that when the American party left Zubeir, a trading town 12 miles from Basra
on the edge of the desert, they saw some Iraq tribesmen moving toward Zubeir with their camels and flocks.

News travels quickly in the desert and the tribesmen undoubtedly had heard of the raiders' approach.

"We weren't warned at Zubeir," continued Crane, "so naturally we thought the danger was not immediate and we decided to proceed."

Raiders 200 Yards Away.
When we were about 50 miles south of Zubeir, shots were fired at us from a distance of about 200 yards. The drivers of the two cars went on at full speed, but the shots were whistling about us and the Rev. Mr. Bilkert was hit in the shoulder, the bullet probably affecting the spinal cord."

Upon receipt of the news of the ambush, airplanes were sent in pursuit of the raiders, but saw nothing. Official quarters think the attackers were scouts ahead of the main body of raiders. It is the custom of the Wahabis to send out scouts on horses which are more fleet than the camels
used by the main body.

The Wahabis are nominally under the control of Ibn Saud and their border raids have been a source of trouble to the British Government which holds a mandate over the Kingdom of Iraq.
Last March, tanks, armored cars
and airplanes were concentrated along the frontier, when it was reported that the desert tribes were about to start a "holy war" against tribes in the British mandated territories.

Diplomatic Efforts Fail.
Efforts to settle by diplomacy
questions concerning the Marshall last August and since then various bases for the defense of the Iraq frontier have been established.
It was predicted today that the killing of the American missionary might lead to the immediate and drastic settlement of the Saud's dispute with Great Britain and Iraq.

Bilkert was a native of Kalamazoo, Mich., and came to Iraq
four years ago, after 11 years on the Persian Gulf. He was a missionary of the Reformed Church in America. Crane is personally acquainted with Ibn Saud.

Attack Laid to Fend Between Two Opposing Tribes.
Advices to the United States
State Department from John Randolph, American Consul at Bagdad, said that Bilkert was killed by the Iraqi Wahabi group of the Wahabi tribe.

It was thought at the State Department that the attack of the Iraqi Wahabi group might have resulted because of a feud which exists between them and other branches of the Wahabi tribes under the leadership of Ibn Saud. The Iraq Wahabi group is known to be intense religious and for this reason is at odds with the Ibn Saud group.
State Department records show that Bilkert had registered at the American Consulate at Bagdad in September, 1927. He left the United States in September, 1924,
and has been assigned to Basra
since October of that year.

BOSWELL OFTEN AT "SHADY REST" GANGSTER SAYS

where Birger was hanged for the murder of Mayor Adams, testified that Boswell visited the gang leader
several times in the cell where Birger awaited execution. Deputy Sheriff Jesse Wheat declared he heard Birger and Boswell discussing the possibility of commutation or reprieve, and heard Birger ask another visitor, "Is Boswell going to Springfield for me tomorrow?"

The visitor replied, "I think he is," and Birger remarked, "He had better go or I'll send him to the same hole I'm going to," according to the testimony.

Roy Martin, State's Attorney of Franklin County, who prosecuted Birger, testified that Boswell sought commutation of Birger's sentence before the State Board of Pardons and Paroles at Springfield.

Mrs. Newman on Stand.
Mrs. Art Newman, wife of the convicted gangster, testified that she accompanied her husband and Connie Ritter, who is at large, on a "collection trip" during which protection fees were obtained from resort keepers. In Marion, she said, the men counted the money, set aside a portion of it for the State's Attorney and left her in the automobile while they went to Boswell's office.

Mrs. Newman said she saw Boswell frequently at "Shady Rest" and once carried a note to him at his home at the request of Birger.
John Newman, her 19-year-old son,
also told of seeing Boswell at
"Shady Rest."

George Janesco, former still operator, testified he gave Boswell $100 on an occasion when Boswell came to him and said he needed money. At the time, Janesco said, his partner, John Toth, was charged with a liquor law violation which subsequently was dropped.

Edward J. Dowd, a Department of Justice investigator, related that in 1926 he was in Williamson County looking for an automobile thief. Boswell, he declared, said he was friendly with Birger and asked him to telephone the gang leader and ask him to produce the fugitive.

The Federal Building at East St.
Louis was as carefully guarded today as it was yesterday with Department United States Marshals questioning all persons who sought to ascend to the second floor, where the trial was in progress. All seats in the courtroom were taken and standing was prohibited. The Marshall's office and ante-room were overflowed with witnesses, including 125 who had been summoned by the Government.

Birger Men Testify They Paid Boswell for Protection.

GANGSTERS, bootleggers and convicts followed each other on the witness stand yesterday to testify that Boswell, when State Attorney received regular "protection" payments from Charlie Birger, gang leader, and other Williamson County law violators, and frequently visited Birger's resorts
during his term of office.

Art Newman, formerly Birger's right-hand man, repeated with em-bellishments the charges he made against Boswell at Marion recently when he pleaded guilty of murder and conspiracy in the Lory Price
case and was sentenced to life imprisonment, describing the former State's Attorney, in response to an ironical defense question, as "the brains of the Birger gang."

Boswell, Newman declared, received from $12 to $300 at irregular intervals from Birger men for protection, suggested the Herrin election riots of 1924, conspired against the life of Sheriff Orin Coleman and advised the murder
of State Highway Patrolman Price,
who was slain with his wife in 1927.

Birger's widow, Mrs. Alvin Rousseau, who has remarried since the gang leader was hanged for murder last spring, told of visits by the State's Attorney to the Birger

home in Harrisburg and of con- versations she had overheard be- tween the gang leader and Boswell.

Newman, dapper and immaculate
as ever despite the years of prison
life he has ahead, was one of 17
convict prisoners brought to East St. Louis for the trial and was the Government's star witness. He told his story nonchalantly half-turned toward the jury and was unembar-rassed when questions were asked which involved himself.

He declared that Boswell was paid from $2 to $3 on each case of whisky transported from Florida
by Birger gangsters and a similar sum on each gallon of alcohol
which was smuggled from Mexico
to Birger to collect from other liquor-law violators.

Newman testified that Boswell frequently visited Birger at his resorts, "Shady Rest" and "County Line," that he opposed the election of Sheriff Coleman, suggesting that the gangsters go to Herrin "and shoot up the place" on election day; that he told Birger that Coleman had the "low-down" on the murder of Mayor Adams of West City, for which Birger later was hanged, and advised Birger to get rid of Sheriff Coleman and Highway Patrolman Price.

Boswell, Newman declared, failed
in an attempt to persuade Sheriff Coleman to go to Saline County for some stolen automobiles, in order that the Sheriff might be waylaid.

Newman named six moonshiners
who he said paid Boswell protection, including Pete Salino, a defendant in the case on trial, and Harry Murray, a resort keeper.
"Murray stopped paying," he related, "and Boswell told us to go out and stick him up. We did and got about $500 and some whisky."

Newman also charged that Birger, seeking to sell $5700 in bonds
taken in the $10,000 Pocatontos bank robbery, entrusted the bonds to the State's Attorney in his office while Newman was present.

"Boswell was one of the gang, wasn't he?" a defense attorney asked sarcastically. Yes, Newman replied, "He was the brains of the gang."

Mrs. Rousseau, who did not describe herself as the gang leader's widow, testified that she "stayed at" Birger's home from Feb. 15, 1926, to 1928, and saw Boswell
there several times. Boswell, she said, would drink and talk with Birger. On one occasion, she said,
Birger sent her to Boswell's office
with a bottle of gin to ask the State's Attorney to arrange for bond for a member of the gang.

She related that Birger frequently had telephone conversations with Boswell.

On the day of the Herrin election riot, April 12, 1926, Mrs.
Rousseau related, John Howard and Ord Treadway, two of the six men who were slain, were at the Birger home. Birger answered the telephone and reported "Carl Shelton says there's trouble at Herrin."

Howard and Treadway, she said, quickly examined their pistols and hurried out of the house.

Declares Fee Was Cut.
Clifford Hatcher, serving a 20-
year term for murder, testified that he formerly operated two resorts in Williamson County, paying Boswell $35 a week for each place.
He closed his places on Labor day,
1926, he declared, and Boswell summoned him to his office and demanded an explanation. Hatcher said he explained that expenses were too high and Boswell reduced the protection fee to $25.

Ural Gowan, another convicted murderer, testified that he saw Boswell drinking at "Shady Rest"
a number of times and that on one occasion he transported a case of whisky to Boswell's office on Birger's orders. Another case of whisky which Hezlie Byrr, former Chief of Police of Johnston City,
a co-defendant with Boswell,
brought to "Shady Rest" in his automobile.

Freddie Wooten, under sentence with Newman in the murder of Mrs. Price, testified that he transported whisky from Florida and alcohol from St. Louis, selling it said, tried to persuade him to reduce the price by $3 in order to absorb "the State's Attorney's fee."

C. T. REMMERS HEADS ST. LOUIS ELECTION BOARD

C. G. Haley, Republican,
and J. Y. Player and J.
W. Hannauer, Democrats
Are His Fellow Members.

The State Senate is expected to ratify the appointments of the four members of the St. Louis Election Board, announced last yesterday afternoon by Gov. Caulfield. The list of appointments, in its entirety, was forecast exclusively in the Post-Dispatch of Jan. 13.

Oliver T. Remmers, former chairman of the Republican City Committee, and close associate of Collector Koenig, was appointed chairman of the board. Clifford
G. Haley, Commissioner of Weights and Measures in the city Department of Public Safety, was named as the second Republican member.

The two Democratic members named were James Y. Player, resident of the city, and Joseph W.
Hannauer, real estate dealer.

The Keeln influence, which was exercised strongly for Caulfield before the primary last summer, is thus recognized in the Governor's first St. Louis appointments. Remmers as city chairman, gave the Caulfield candidacy a start, after Cleveland A. Newton's decision not to be a candidate for Governor.

Both the City Committee and the Advisory Finance Committee indorsement of the primary, Remmers failed of re-election to the committee from his ward, the Twelfth.

Haley was a deputy in the Executive Commissioner's office when Caulfield held that now obsolete State position. He was active in support of Caulfield in the Twenty-second Ward, and obtained an endorsement of the candidate
there, although the ward committee was supporting Dr. James Stewart.

Player was Controller under Mayor Callahan. He is former president of the Real Estate Exchange, for which body Caulfield was counsel. He is a brother of George Hannauer, president of the Boston & Maine Railroad. Before announcing the two Democratic selections, Caulfield called in State Senators Kinney and Brogan of St. Louis, who offered no objection to Player and Hannauer.

Remmers said he would make the utmost efforts in behalf of clean elections and was confident the other appointments would work to the same end. He commented that the State's Attorney had retired, he said, it would be his policy to name persons of unquestioned party affiliations, Republicans or Democrats,
as election officials.

The market opened with the main price trend upward although there was some irregularity.
Banks were reported to be paying off more of their indebtedness
at the Federal Reserve, and credit conditions were temporarily more comfortable.

The buying of copper continued
at a fast pace, as a 17 per cent
domestic price, 4 cents above the low of 1928, was again talked of as anticipated.

A block of 10,000 shares of Chile

by the directors' meeting later in the day.

Studebaker was again bought,
accompanied by talk of a stock di-

a point.

Warner Brothers preferred

MILK STRIKE ENDS IN CHICAGO; PRICE TO BE ARBITRATED

Conference to Settle Differences With Dairymen Called After Seizure of Two Dairy Trains.

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Chicago's milk strike, with its displays of violence and destruction of milk
destined for the Chicago market, ended at a conference of producers, distributors and city health officers early today.

Dr. Arnold Kegel, Commissioner of Health, announced that the two factions, at loggerheads for weeks
over the price to be paid for raw milk, had agreed to submit their differences to arbitration.

Officers of the Pure Milk Association, representing the striking dairymen, agreed to order the discontinuance of picketing pending settlement.

The dairymen's demand of $2.55
a hundredweight for milk and the distributors' counter proposal of $2.50 will be submitted for arbitration today at a meeting between representatives of the two factions.

Should this method of arbitration fail, Dr. Kegel was authorized to name one man to fix a fair price
to be paid for the city's milk supply.

The conference was called after 200 striking dairymen last night
added to the thousands of pounds
of milk that have been dumped by selling two Seelye line milk trains at Lake Villa, Ill. They intimidated
the crews with clubs, smashed their way into four cars with pick axes and destroyed 160,000 pounds of milk.

It was the chief outbreak of a day of violence in which trucks were kidnapped and beaten and

HARKNESS TO FINANCE GROUP RESIDENCE PLAN AT HARVARD

Promises $11,392,000 to Finance
Entire Cost of Project; Gave $3,000,000 Annually.

By the Associated Press.
CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Jan. 22.—
Harvard University authorities announced that Edward S. Harkness,
New York financier, whose family has given millions to Yale, has promised $11,392,000 to finance
fully the plan of dividing Harvard College into small residential groups. The announcement was made through a letter to President
A. Lawrence Lowell.

The plan for the subdivision of the college was first made public when President Lowell announced
the gift of $3,000,000 from an anonymous donor, who, it later was learned, was Harkness.

Each house will contain approximately 250 undergraduates, which would mean the eventual utilization of about 10 houses.

Byrd and Boat Crew Encounter Killer Whales

two got out oars and began to row. They had been jogging along at about six knots with the motor,
but with oars the heavy boat moved slowly, and it looked like a long row home.

We wound in and out of big cakes of ice while two Asquia gulls swept down over us to look over this strange invasion. They passed several times only a few feet over our heads before circling off to land.

There were many snow petals sitting on these cakes, perfectly camouflaged against the snow,
only their black eyes and bills
making them visible; and once Byrd pointed at a big cake at which it was necessary to look for some time before we could see about 30 of these beautiful birds sitting in the snow watching us.

Finally the Commander himself,
who has handled outboard motors
since he was a boy, turned back to get it going, although it spluttered occasionally.

It was just after this, when we were approaching the point at which the boat was to turn, that we found the face of the bay ice toward the ship that the low feathery spout of a whale was seen about half a mile ahead.

We regarded that spout with interest which might mildly be called intense. The drift here was heavy and thick, and all eyes on the point ahead which was broken and serrated by upstanding cakes of ice that had evidently come from an old pressure ridge.

Another spout was seen, and then, as the whale rolled over its back, a long black fin of a killer
was seen standing over a low cake.

Killer Whales.
Well, there was no doubt about what they were. The question was, what would they do and how many of them were there?

They hunt in packs and as many as 25 have been counted at once
while we have been lying here.
This would indicate at least twice as many whales in one group. It is because of their presence, cruising along the face of the bay ice,
that we have seen so few seals and big blue whales.

It is hard to convey to any one who has not seen one, the horrible appearance of one of these killers of the sea.

Ponting, who was with Scott's last expedition, was on a cake of ice near the ship one day when several killers went below the ice and then struck their heads up to get Ponting. He escaped by a miracle, jumping from cake to cake
until he reached safety.

Killers have been seen to seize a seal in their jaws and rush off with it, tearing it to pieces.

We have seen them here lift
their heads above the ice and stare
at us with their little piglike eyes,
holding themselves on their tails
for an appreciable moment with several feet of their head and jaws out of the water. Just below the jaw is a patch of dirty yellow and there is a yellowish white stripe on each side just back of the fin.

Byrd Shows Daring.
We knew what they would do
if they got a man in the water, but we were wondering what they would do to a boat. Then it was that Commander Byrd showed those qualities of caution and daring, the combination of which have brought him through so many difficulties.

He was chewing gum rapidly
and had pushed his cap back so that he could see perfectly. Both he and Strom had huge 45's, for we have learned that a killer can be killed with a bullet, and Byrd brought his around so that he could get at it quickly.

It seemed a small thing with which to kill a creature more than 20 feet long.

We could not dodge them by going outside, that would not have been safe. So Byrd held his course to the ice and headed straight for where the spouts shot upward and sprayed out in the wind. The responsibility was his now, and was all sat silently and watched, two of us smoking and one at least hanging on to a pipe just to show that he didn't care if there were killers around. We could see by this time that there were three of them.

Commander Byrd was maneuvering very carefully, trying to time
his meeting with the whales so that he would have firm ice in shore to which we could jump if necessary.

We reached a little point with a small inlet. Beyond it three black fins rolled up in front of us, just a little inside of us, toward the ice.
Commander Byrd at once turned the boat so as to cut across their tails as they rolled under again.

(Here the dispatch ends, leaving the story of Byrd's encounter with the killer whales uncompleted. Apparently part of the account has been delayed in transmission. It will be printed in the Post-Dispatch when received.)

TWO SECRETARIES FOR HOOVER
AT $10,000 A YEAR PROPOSED

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.— President-elect Hoover will have two $10,000 a year private secretaries when he takes office if Congress approves.

In reporting the independent offices appropriation bill, the Senate Appropriations Committee has added $10,000 for the salary of an additional private secretary. This was done after a special recommendation was received from the Budget Bureau. The present White House
staff consists of Everett Sanders, private secretary, with a salary of $10,000 a year, and Edward T.
Clark and Stuart Crawford, assistants, with smaller salaries. The recommendation for a salary for another private secretary was sent to Congress after President-elect Hoover's recent conference with President Coolidge.

D. H. MUDD ESTATE GAINS $4,000,000 BY RISE IN STOCK

The 15,130 Shares in J. C. Penney Co. Worth $125 Apiece at Time of His Death Advance to $392.

PROPERTY'S TOTAL VALUE $6,500,000

This Is More Than Double Its Estimated Worth Ten and One-Half Months Ago.

The estate of Dayton H. Mudd, who was vice president of the J. C. Penney Co., a retail chain store organization, has increased $4,000,000 in market value, to a total valuation of $6,500,000 in the 15 months since Mr. Mudd's death.

Mr. Mudd owned 15,130 shares of the common stock of the Penney company, valued at $125 a share at the time of his death, according to an appraisal of the estate, filed in Probate Court at Clayton yesterday. This stock was listed on the New York curb market yesterday at $392 a share.

Several factors probably are responsible for the trebling in market value of the stock, L. P. Thompson, assistant St. Louis manager of the Penney company, explained to a Post-Dispatch reporter. The stock earned 12 per cent last year, the market has been favorable for increases in stock values, and the Penney company, now operating 1424 retail stores, is planning to open 500 new stores this year.

Employees Hold Bulk of Stock. In order to finance the new stores, Thompson said, the capitalization of the company, now 1,250,000 shares of stock, will be increased to 2,000,000 shares. Stockholders will be permitted to purchase two shares of the new stock at $1 a share for every share of stock they now hold.

It has been the policy of J. C. Penney, native Missourian, founder of the company and now chairman of the board of directors, to make each employee of the concern a stockholder. Not more than 8000 shares of the stock are held by the general public, Thompson said. The rest is owned by employees and officers of the company, store managers in cities of 25,000 inhabitants, own from 4000 to 10,000 shares each. Many of them have become millionaires in the past two years.

The Penney Co., Thompson asserted, "has made more money than any other institution in the country."

The stock, now selling for $392 a share, cost some company employees 10 cents a share only a few years ago. An opportunity to purchase stock at $1 a share was given employees and a relatively short time later a stock dividend was declared whereby each stockholder received 10 shares for each share he held.

Penney was not the only native Missourian in the original organization. After he left his home in Hamilton, Mo., about 30 years ago, seeking a more healthful climate in the West, he was employed by a small chain store organization as a store manager in Keokuk, Iowa. He saved diligently and when he had accumulated $500 purchased the store from his employers.

First Employee Now President. The first man he employed was C. C. Sams, a Missourian, now president of the Penney company. The second employee was Dayton Mudd, an orphan, who was living with relatives in Milwaukee, Mo. Mr. Mudd borrowed $75 to make the trip to Keokuk, Iowa, where he went to work in Penney's store. Later Penney opened a store in Cumberland, Wyo., and put Mr. Mudd in charge as manager.

Another young man joined the Penney forces. He brought his bride with him, and worked in the store. The young man was Sams. In the morning, when the store was open, Sams was running the store. When the store was closed, Sams was available. The store was a success. Sams was a success. Sams was a success.

From Iowa lived with his wife in an abandoned covered wagon. This was 25 years ago, two years after the Penney business venture had started. The store was a success. Sams was a success. Sams was a success.

Mr. Mudd retired from business five years ago, when he was 65 years old. At the time of his death he was planning to sell the family home at 6918 Washington street for a new home on Lindell boulevard, between Skinker boulevard and the Ballwin avenue. He was survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary F. Mudd, and three children, Francis Mudd, 18 years old; Joseph Mudd, 14; and Dayton H. Mudd, Jr., 8.

His estate, with the exception of the $4,000,000 which he left to Catholic charities, is to be divided among his widow and children, the widow

Obtains Divorce in Reno

GLORIA GOULD BISHOP.

GLORIA GOULD BISHOP GETS DIVORCE IN RENO

Daughter of Late George Jay Gould Obtains Decree on Ground of Cruelty.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

RENO, Nev., Jan. 22.—Gloria Gould Bishop obtained a divorce here yesterday from Henry Bishop Jr., ending a romance begun some five years ago.

The daughter of the late George Jay Gould obtained the decree on the ground of cruelty. Custody of the three and one-half-year-old daughter was given to the mother. The father is to have the right to visit the child at reasonable times.

The amended complaint was filed yesterday afternoon and immediately thereafter Mrs. Bishop went into court and told her story.

The amended complaint was somewhat more mild than the original filed Aug. 31. She said Bishop used insulting language toward her and showed a lack of respect. She said he grabbed her by the throat on one occasion and she feared he might do her harm.

He also used disrespectful language toward her relatives, she said, on the second anniversary of the wedding, Sept. 8, 1925. Mrs. Bishop said that after Bishop had used abusive language toward her she started to go to her room and he prevented her from doing so. She became frightened by his attitude, she said, and he relented when she told him she was going to leave the house.

He told her then, she said, that she need not leave, as he would go the next morning. This was understood to be the last time they lived together.

Mrs. Bishop's appearance recalled the rift that developed 75 years ago between the paternal heads of the Vanderbilt and Gould families when they were fighting for control of railroads. Cornelius Vanderbilt Jr. came into the court as a visitor and was introduced to Mrs. Bishop by Judge George A. Bartlett just before he granted Mrs. Bishop her divorce. Vanderbilt and Mrs. Bishop had a brief but amiable talk.

In commenting on the introduction, Judge Bartlett said: "I took it upon me. It ended the feud just for the fun of the thing."

The accident occurred at the intersection of North Broadway and East Grand avenue. Three passengers in Sams' machine testified that the child ran into the street directly in the path of the automobile which was traveling at the rate of about 25 miles an hour.

Sams, they said, swerved the car but was unable to avoid striking the boy.

A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of accident today in the death of William Ellington, 5 years old, killed in the nineteenth street, who was struck by an automobile driven by John Sams, 1750 Chestnut street, Granite City, Ill., last Sunday.

WOMAN TESTIFIES AGAINST HAYES IN GANG KILLING

Mrs. Dorothy Wood, Guarded by Deputies and Police, State's Main Witness in Longo Murder.

Guarded by a dozen Deputy Sheriffs and policemen, Mrs. Dorothy Wood, the State's star witness in the murder trial of Tommy Hayes, Cuckoo gangster, took the witness stand in Circuit Judge Nolte's courtroom at Clayton this afternoon and gave her version of the incidents leading up to the killing of Mike Longo, Italian gunman, who, with James Russo, was slain last July 25.

Mrs. Wood walked in the center of a group of deputies and policemen to Judge Nolte's private entrance at the rear of the courtroom. She entered there and glanced at Hayes, who avoided her gaze. Then Mrs. Wood mounted to the witness chair.

She took the stand and related that Hayes had been living at her home, 1219 Sutter avenue, University City, for two months previous to the killing.

"On the twenty-fifth," she continued, "he came to the house a little before noon. He broke a screen door to get in. He told a neighbor who was talking to me to get out and then he said I'd better get out, too, before long."

"We're going to kill a couple of dagoes. There's a plenty of police around here," he said. Then he went away.

"In 15 or 20 minutes he came back. I was talking to a neighbor on my front porch. He stopped his car and said, 'What are you doing, telling all the neighbors what's going to happen?'"

"Then he drove into the vacant lot across the street, where he used to park his car, and where I had my roadhouse until it burned down a year ago. I went back into the kitchen of my house and stayed there until I heard a lot of shots."

"As I reached the front of the house, I saw a big car drive into the lot. Then a minute later Tommy came driving his car out with five or six men in it or hanging on the sides. He drove away, north on Sutter avenue."

"Then a man, bleeding from head to foot, ran across the street and collapsed on the porch of my neighbor. I called the police and told them to send some doctors out."

"Tommy called me up that night and asked me what had happened. I told him that I had told the deputies I was downtown when the shooting happened and knew nothing about it, and he said that was all right."

"If you say anything about this," he told me, "you won't live 24 hours. You'll see what the dagoes got. I told him that I had told the deputies I was downtown when the shooting happened and knew nothing about it, and he said that was all right."

The State indicated in opening statements that it would ask the death penalty.

LIUT.-COL. PAEGELOW IN WASHINGTON FOR CONFERENCE

Scott Field Commandant May Tell Senate Committee of Needs of Air Service.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Lieutenant-Colonel John A. Paegelow, Commandant of Scott Field, Ill., is in Washington in response to a request of Brigadier-General Peche, Chief of the Air Corps, for conferences and to give his advice concerning the needs of the service.

The Army appropriation bill as passed by the House contains no provision for new craft of that kind and the Senate Military Affairs Committee has shown an inclination to provide funds to promote that branch of the Air Service, Paegelow may be called before the Senate Committee during his stay in Washington to give his views. It was said at the War Department that appropriations for lighter-than-air craft would be devoted partly to Scott Field, since that is a lighter-than-air station, but whether Paegelow would discuss appropriations for Scott Field, as such, while here was not disclosed.

SENATOR PINE EXONERATED BY SENATE INDIAN COMMITTEE

Oklahoma Had Been Accused of Trying to "Destroy" Commissioner Burke.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A report exonerating Senator Pine (Rep., Oklahoma), of the charge made by Commissioner Burke of the Indian Bureau, that Pine was seeking to "destroy" Burke was adopted today by the Senate Indian Committee.

The report declared that Senator Pine "is entirely innocent" of the charges made by Commissioner Burke.

Burke had charged that Senator Pine was involved in a conspiracy against him because James Hepburn of Oklahoma was not appointed superintendent of the Five Civilized Tribes. He also charged that Pine was "using his political appointees now in the Department of Justice, namely, C. B. Selby and B. N. Parmenter, to aid him in carrying out this dastardly conspiracy, and Senator Pine is co-operating with John Collier."

BUILDERS OPPOSE WAGE INCREASE SOUGHT BY UNIONS

Contractors' Group Suggests Resumption of 44-Hour Week to Remedy Any Labor Shortage.

Following the recent announcement by representatives of four union building crafts, including the Laborers' District Council with 3500 men, that they desire to open negotiations for wage increases to become effective at the opening of the construction season, the Associated Building Interests, an employers' organization, issued a statement today setting forth reasons for opposing any increase in pay during the year.

The statement, which suggests that a resumption of the 44-hour working week, in place of the 5-day week placed in effect here last year, is the proper remedy for any labor shortages, reads in part as follows:

"It is felt that no economic condition justifies an increase now, as the amount of work offered so far and in prospect does not compare with the last two years, during which wages remained stable."

Cite Reasons Against Increase. "It is felt that increases to any single craft will be immediately followed by demands of a like nature from all the building trades. As it is the desire of employers to stimulate building work under union conditions, it is our thought that any increase will be a detriment to such stimulation. Attention is called to the fact that any increase in wages will attract outside labor to St. Louis and we know of no labor shortage in the majority of the crafts here, and if such shortage does exist in any craft, suggest that the condition could be remedied by a return to the 44-hour week."

Members of the Building Laborers' Council, who now receive 75 cents an hour for ordinary shovel work and 87½ cents an hour for concreting, are asking a flat scale of 90 cents an hour, regardless of the type of work done.

Ironworkers Seek Increase. Union ironworkers, numbering about 600 men, recently announced that they expect an increase of 25 cents an hour, to $1.75, effective May 1. Asbestos workers, numbering 200 men, want an increase, yet undetermined, over their present wage scale of $1.37½ cents an hour. Slate and tile roofers' helpers, another small craft, have announced their intention of demanding an increase.

None of the more important skilled crafts, including bricklayers, plasterers, carpenters and painters, has made any demand so far. Representatives of several of these unions admit that numbers of their members are unemployed at present and expressed the belief that the time is not right for wage demands.

Union plumbers received an increase of 50 cents a day, to $13, effective Jan. 1, under an agreement made last May.

Robbed as He Opens Store. Charles Connors, a grocer, 1339 Hamilton boulevard, found a man with a pistol waiting for him when he opened a side door of the grocery early today. The robber searched Connors' pockets and took $75.

POLICE BOARD TO BE NAMED AFTER PRIMARY

Gov. Caulfield Desires to Keep Entirely Out of Kiel-Miller Fight in Picking Commission.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—Though it is practically certain that Gov. Caulfield will appoint an entirely new Board of Police Commissioners in St. Louis, it is as equally certain that there will be no changes in the board until after the majority primary, March 8.

The Governor is known to have determined to take no action which could be made a basis for even a suspicion that he had taken sides between former Mayor Kiel and Mayor Miller.

There is no doubt that much political pressure has been brought to bear on him to choose the police commissioners, and St. Louis politicians have been anxiously waiting to see whether he picks Miller or Kiel men.

So far, the Governor has not indicated whom he intends to name, though it is probable that he has the appointments fairly well fixed in his mind, and his delay in announcing them is due to his desire to keep entirely out of the Kiel-Miller fight and to do nothing which would lead to a charge that police were to be used in the primary.

It is said here that the Governor feels that the Police Board has been free of any accusation of political activity, that it has functioned well and that, while he will feel perfectly free to name a board of his own choosing later on, there is no reason why the present board should not remain until after the primary.

There is much talk here of former Mayor Frederick H. Kremsmann for the presidency of the board. The Governor is known to hold Kremsmann in high esteem, but there has been nothing to indicate whether Kremsmann would be willing to accept the post if it were offered to him.

The Governor's former law partner, Dan Bartlett, is being talked of as a probable selection for one place on the board, as is also George Kollus who is a personal friend and who has been an applicant, as he was under the Baker administration at the time pressure was brought to bear on the Senate to refuse confirmation to Col. Allen C. Orrick, president of the Baker board.

Kremsmann is chairman of former Mayor Kiel's campaign committee. Gov. Caulfield at one time

Sherwood Eddy, which visited Soviet Russia in 1926.

Following the death of Bishop Daniel Sylvester Tuttle, which occurred in the first year of his death here, Dean Scarlett took an active part in the campaign for the Bishop Tuttle Memorial, which is now in use as a parish and diocesan building.

Dean Scarlett, when seen today by a Post-Dispatch reporter, said he would go to Philadelphia within a short time to look over the ground. Until after this inspection he will make no announcement as to acceptance or declination of his election. According to the usual custom, a committee from the diocese of Pennsylvania will probably wait upon him within the next few days to notify him of his selection.

In nominating Dean Scarlett before the diocesan convention in Philadelphia, the Rev. Dr. L. N. Calley said he thought the dean would accept in case his election was by a substantial majority. This condition appears to have been fulfilled.

After the decisive vote for Dean Scarlett, Bishop Garland told the delegates that he had written to the St. Louis dean. "I told him," the Bishop said, "that in my view, anyone elected to this office was drafted into the service, unless there was an insuperable obstacle, and that such obstacle should be made known before the election. Dean Scarlett wrote back that he, too, would consider such an election a drafting into service. We may expect Dean Scarlett to accept. We have only to convince him that we want him."

LEAGUE HOPES U. S. WILL JOIN IT SOON AS AN ASSOCIATE

Indications Are for Affiliation to Take Place Before End of Hoover's Term, Perhaps in Year.

By ALGER E. JOHNSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

GENEVA, Jan. 22.—Indications that the United States will become an "associate" member of the League of Nations before the expiration of President-elect Hoover's term, perhaps within a year, are appearing in many quarters in Geneva.

From reliable authorities the correspondent ascertains that the league will welcome Washington's partial affiliation under circumstances which will permit the United States to participate in all except "political activities."

The movement for American participation in league affairs, which is reported to be gathering momentum in the United States, follows lines formulated by Norman Lewis, U. S. House, George Wickersham and others who realize that the time for American action will not be ripe politically for at least a decade.

Would Help Solve Problems.

Associate membership, on the other hand, would eliminate practically all the troublesome situations which are constantly confronting both Geneva and Washington, when the question of American participation in discussions of disarmament and multitudinous economic and social problems handled by the league arises.

According to well informed circles, a plan could be worked out in the application of which Washington would to all intents and purposes participate in international deliberations here on an equal footing with league members in nonpolitical matters in such a manner as was suggested by Herbert Hoover in a pre-election address. Washington would pay dues only equivalent to those originally anticipated or in accordance with the extent of American cooperation. The United States would not necessarily attend either the Council of the League or the Assembly, but could delegate observers who would participate in discussion of such matters as directly concern the United States.

The increasing interest taken by Washington in League affairs as a result of Hoover's impending administration is already noticeable. In the future, two officials of the American consulate here will be assigned almost entirely to following Geneva activities. Vice Consul Smith is coming here from Stuttgart, Germany, to take over the consulate work relating to documents on the League's conferences. This work has been handled heretofore by the Ministry at Bern.

To Have Liaison Official.

Vice Consul Stanley Woodward, it is understood, will devote his entire time hereafter exclusively to acting as liaison official between the League and the administration. Eltha Root, who arrives in Geneva in mid-March to participate in deliberations of the international committee of Jurists which will undertake revision of the statutes of the World Court, will report directly to Washington upon the completion of the committee's labor. Root is understood to be in a position to "interpret" to the Court members the meaning of the Senate's reservations, particularly the fifth reservation, which hitherto has been definitely rejected by the League.

The main objective of the proposed "associate membership" of the United States in the League would be to obviate the anachronism of the United States not recognizing officially the existence and permanency of the League and seeking, as in the past, to deal through defunct organizations which have been replaced by League supervised commissions.

Washington would be committed only by those parts of the covenant to which it subscribed and would be unaffected by Article 19.

ESTATE OF A. H. LEWIS

IS VALUED AT $117,281

Bequeathed to Niece; Amount Does Not Include Medicine Company Stock, Left to Nephew.

The estate of A. H. Lewis is valued at $117,281, exclusive of his stock in the A. H. Lewis Medicine Co., of which he was the founder. In an inventory filed recently in Probate Court at Clayton.

Mrs. Ida Howe Taylor, a niece, with whom Lewis made his home at 4232 Forsythe boulevard, University City, is to receive the property, which includes $60,000 in municipal and school bonds, $20,000 in Liberty bonds and $3616 in cash. Her husband, George W. Taylor, is executor. A nephew, James H. Howe, to whom the medicine company stock was bequeathed, said his uncle had assigned the stock to him before his death.

Mr. Lewis died Oct. 22 at the age of 82.

$200,000 Fire in New Brunswick.

By the Associated Press.

FREDERICTON, N. B., Jan. 22.—Fire destroyed four brick buildings in the heart of Fredericton's business district this morning. The loss is estimated at $200,000. The flames started in a haberdashery.

BOSTON SUNDAY BASEBALL APPEARS TO BE ASSURED

Despite Graft Charges, Council Chairman Says Issuance of Permit Is Favored.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 22.—Notwithstanding graft charges, big league baseball in Boston Sundays seemed today to be assured.

John F. Dowd, chairman of a special City Council committee considering the Braves' application, announced that the committee favored the issuance of the permit. Another application would have to be filed, however, he said.

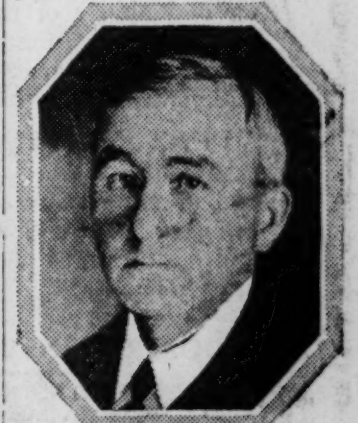

The Boston Finance Commission, which has been investigating charges by Emil E. Fuchs, president of the Braves, and by Charles Francis Adams, vice president, that 13 members of the City Council sought a bribe of $5000 each to insure early acceptance of the Sunday sports act in this city, will resume its public hearings tomorrow.

COMPLICATION IS QUICKLY ROUTED BY NEW KONJOLA

"Konjola Is the Medicine I Should Have Had in the First Place," Says Former Sufferer.

How often it is that men and women who found in Konjola, the new and different medicine, their first and only relief from years of suffering that defied all other remedies, say—"Konjola is the medicine I should have had in the first place."

This expression sums up the many reasons why Konjola receives the praise and acclaim of so many thousands. The merits of Konjola are undeniable—proven by the many sincere and grateful endorsements of reliable persons. It contains no alcohol, nerve-depressants, nor heart-depressants—it needs no such ingredients, for it is a medicine that nature herself might have compounded, in her own laboratories. All who are ill and who would be well again are invited to call on the Konjola Man, who is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, this city, and hear his personal explanation of this master medicine. Meet this man, lay your health problems before him—he has been sent to this city for the express purpose of aiding all who are ill. Just the other day, Mr. George Ruppel, Ballwin, Mo., a short distance from St. Louis, returned to the Konjola Man, after taking a short treatment of this advanced compound, and made this startling statement to him:

"After I had taken Konjola but a few days I realized that this was the medicine I should have had in the first place. What it has done for me I am convinced it will do for everyone who is seeking health, and for that reason I make this public statement. For a long time I didn't know what it was to eat a meal without suffering afterward. My stomach was so disordered that every bite of food caused gas bloating, indigestion pains and, quite often, nauseating vomiting spells. Due to the sluggishness of my liver I became subject to dizzy attacks that staggered me. Pains, severe ones, pierced my chest—a tired and drawn-out feeling sapped my strength and energy. But, worst of all, I continued to fail in health and was unable to find anything that helped me."

"Konjola was first recommended by a friend who had gained amazing relief through this medicine. Then I came across a case similar to mine wherein Konjola proved of priceless value. This gave me new faith and hope—I decided to give it a trial—a chance to benefit me. Well, Konjola certainly did not fail in this test. It went right to work; I could almost feel it. Its 32 ingredients cleansed, strengthened and regulated my organs. My liver and stomach soon responded—the different symptoms grew fainter and fainter. One by one they disappeared, never to return. Today I am a different person—free of aches, pains and ugly after-eating miseries. That is what Konjola has done for me—completely restored my health. Do you wonder why I give it my most sincere praise?"

You may ask, "Is this not an exceptional case?" Not at all. Daily Konjola performs these wonders, to the astonishment and amazement of the drug and medical trades. There is no secret, no mystery to Konjola—it is simply a medicine of real merit—a compound that does all and more than is claimed for it. The Konjola Man is at the Walgreen Drug Store, 515 Olive street, this city, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

LEADER OF COUNTY JAIL BREAK IN 1926 IS KILLED IN WEST

James Elmer Fox, Trying to Escape From Los Angeles Deputy, Shot to Death in Elevator.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 22.—James Elmer Fox, 24-year-old "bad man," who led an escape of seven prisoners from the St. Louis County Jail in 1926, was shot to death here yesterday in another desperate attempt at freedom, in which four other men were wounded.

After the 1926 escape, Fox and his pal, Robert E. Williams, came to California and renewed their criminal activities under the aliases of Jack Hawkins and Zeke Hayes. Convicted of robberies in San Francisco and sentenced to Folsom prison for life, they were brought to Los Angeles to testify before the grand jury concerning police graft and to stand trial for attempted murder.

The two managed convicts were riding in an elevator between the ninth and tenth floors of the Justice Building when Fox suddenly drew a pistol and shot Deputy Sheriff A. R. Jones in the neck and abdomen. Slumped on the floor of the elevator, Jones drew his revolver and shot Fox dead. Williams, who jumped to the aid of Fox, was shot in the arm. Robert Pope, the elevator operator, was wounded in the neck, and Deputy Sheriff Tom Higgins was slightly wounded.

Fox had fired five shots when his weapon jammed. He was carrying a handcuff key and a piece of bent wire. Williams refused to tell officers where Fox had obtained the weapon. Deputy Jones' condition is serious.

Fox Slugged County Deputy in 1926 Jail Break.

Fox and Williams were arrested Oct. 16, 1926, in an East St. Louis rooming house where they were nursing bullet wounds suffered in an encounter with three University City policemen who had sought to question them in a stolen car the night before. Patrolman John Kaiser was wounded in the exchange of shots.

On the following Dec. 11, Fox, Williams and five other prisoners escaped from the Clayton jail. When Deputy Sheriff Rudy Baumer unlocked the "bull pen" door, the prisoners rushed at him. Baumer struck Fox with his heavy keys, knocking him down, but the others overpowered Baumer. Before departing Fox struck Baumer savagely with a heavy padlock, knocking him unconscious, after which he rifled the Deputy's pockets of $20 in bills and a ring of small keys.

FRISCO TO INSTALL SIGNALS AT SAPPINGTON CROSSING
President of Railroad Writes Judge Hodgdon of Plan at Oakland in County.

Wig-wag and bell signals will be installed by the St. Louis & San Francisco Railroad at its crossing at Sappington road, Oakland, St. Louis County, according to information received today by County Probate Judge Hodgdon from President J. M. Kurn. Kurn's advice followed a letter from Judge Hodgdon pointing out the dangerous nature of an unguarded crossing at Sappington road. Through Judge Hodgdon's efforts $7 safety devices have been installed at St. Louis County road crossings.

STRUCK BY AUTO WHILE LEAVING A STREET CAR
William Pevadors Suffers Fractures of Skull, Right Leg and Left Arm.

William Pevadors, 67 years old, 3719 Louisiana avenue, was struck by an automobile driven by Frank Durrer, 3617 Alberta street, as he left a street car at Grand boulevard and Winnebago street, last night and suffered a fractured skull and a fractured right leg and left arm.

Durrer conveyed the injured man to City Hospital in a semiconscious condition. He was arrested.

INDICTED FOR THEFT OF 11,980 INNER TUBES WORTH $12,000
Herman E. Pitman, Former Superintendent of Rubber Firm, Returned to City.

Herman E. Pitman, former superintendent of the shipping room of the St. Louis Rubber Cement Co., 2352 West Pine boulevard, has been indicted on a charge of stealing automobile inner tubes. It became known yesterday. Pitman has surrendered and given bond.

He was arrested in a Detroit hotel Aug. 17 and waived extradition to St. Louis.

He is alleged to have stolen 11,980 inner tubes valued at $12,000, and denies the charge. Police recovered 1000 of the tubes shortly after Pitman's arrest.

Alumni to Discuss Economics.
The alumni of the School of Commerce and Finance of St. Louis University will meet Thursday at 6 p. m. in the Busy Bee tea room to discuss marketing and economics.

C. B. Rader, secretary and treasurer of the Merchants' Exchange of St. Louis, will speak. The Rev. Joseph L. Davis, S. J., regent, and Prof. Gustave Klausner will preside.

Arm Ached
with Neuritis

"My left arm was almost useless from neuritis. The piercing pain bothered me all day. At night the sharp twinges would wake me right out of my sleep. I suffered terribly until one day I got from this simple oil the relief I had hoped for. My arm feels fine now."

Good old "St. Jacob's Oil" is one remedy that really stops the pains and aches of Neuritis, Rheumatism, Backache, Lumbago and Neuralgia. The relief is almost instantaneous because this marvelous oil goes directly to the affected part and as quickly draws out all the ache and pain. And it doesn't burn or blister the skin. Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacob's Oil" today at your drug-gist's and see how it relieves pain.

EX-REPORTER ADMITS
E. ST. LOUIS SHOOTING

Timothy P. McCarthy Arrested
After Horace Haislip Dies;
Pleads Self-Defense.

Timothy P. McCarthy of East St. Louis, former newspaper reporter, arrested last night, admitted shooting Horace Haislip, 26 years old, who died yesterday afternoon from a bullet wound in the chest inflicted Jan. 9 at the Ozark Hotel in East St. Louis.

Haislip had made an oral statement that McCarthy shot him, but later, in a signed statement, declared he did not know who fired the shot.

However, McCarthy readily confessed the shooting and pleaded self defense. He said he had had trouble with Haislip, and the latter, with knife in hand, came toward him on a stairway at the hotel. McCarthy said he fired three shots over Haislip's head and, when this failed to stop him, shot him. McCarthy remained at the hotel until after police took Haislip away, and then disappeared.

BOY, 5, HIT BY STREET CAR

James Wren, 5 years old, 6101 Wabada avenue, was picked up by the fender of a Hodiament street car yesterday afternoon when he stepped in the path of the car at the Hodiament tracks and Wabada avenue. The boy was dragged about six feet, but the only injury he suffered was a bruise on the right leg.

Seeks Her Husband and Children.
Mrs. Gertrude Byers of Pueblo, Colo., has asked police to assist her in the search for her husband, Charles, 49 years old, and their two children, Carleton 7, and Winifred, 5. Mrs. Byers said her husband took the children from school at Pueblo Oct. 16 and she has not heard from him since. She thinks they have come to St. Louis.

PARLIAMENT IN ITALY DISSOLVED; ELECTION CALLED

New Electoral System Under Which Grand Fascist Council Is Supreme Becomes Effective.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Publisher Publishing Co., New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

ROME, Jan. 22.—King Victor Emmanuel III yesterday signed a decree giving his assent to the dissolution of parliament. It marks the end of the constitution which the King's ancestor gave to Italy and ushers in an electoral system under which the grand Fascist council is virtually supreme in the choice of the people's representatives in the future.

A second decree signed by the King gives the lists of the men whom Premier Mussolini has chosen for the first two categories of the new grand Fascist council. The members of the third category will be announced as soon as Mussolini has made his choice.

The two categories embodied in the decree contain 44 names. The first of these categories, which may be likened to a kind of upper chamber within the council, is made up of 16 faithful Fascists who followed Mussolini when Fascism was exposed to daily dangers.

Two Generals on List.

This list includes the names of Gen. Balbo and De Bono, Michele Bianchi, Count De Vecchi, Dino Grandi, under-secretary for foreign affairs, and Roberto Farinacci, former secretary of the Fascist party, and one journalist, Forges Davanzati, formerly a member of the defunct Nationalist party. It was said here last night that his nomination to such a high honor disappointed more than one ultra-Fascist editor, but he is regarded a most capable man.

The second category is for members whose appointment ceases with their holding of the function they now fulfill. It includes August Tosi, the Fascist party's secretary; Renato Ricci, head of the boy Fascist organizations; the heads of labor corporations and also of employers' federations, much to the satisfaction of labor. The third category will consist of men appointed for two years only. Appointments May Be Revoked.

Thus the Fascist grand council assumes an entirely new form in keeping with its new status as a constitutional body. Though any member's appointment may be revoked by royal decree on proposal of the Prime Minister the fact remains that Mussolini himself shares his multiple responsibilities with the council whose president he is.

The council's duties, it is emphasized, are purely advisory and the Government still has the last word in political questions. Nevertheless the council has the right to be heard on questions involving succession to the throne, the prerogatives of the crown and the relations between the Holy See and the Italian State. Its role in elections is paramount.

How the council will work with the future parliament is a question that interests the nation now. Will the latter be as docile as the abolished one, which was treated with open contempt or will it show whatever initiative that has been left to it by law?

ROME, Jan. 22.—King Victor Emmanuel upon Premier Mussolini's suggestion named 20 new Senators, all of whom were deputies in the outgoing chamber. The new Senators included President Casertano of the outgoing chamber and Prince Boncompagni Ludovisi, Governor of Rome.

JEFFERSON BARRACKS RAISED TO BRIGADIER-GENERAL'S POST
Col. Falls, Commandant, to Be Replaced by George H. Esthes. Now in Porto Rico.

Jefferson Barracks has been raised to a Brigadier-General's post from that of a Colonel's, and changes in personnel as a result of the order will become effective March 15.

Col. Moor N. Falls, commandant, will be replaced by Brigadier-General George H. Esthes of the Ninth Corps Area, Pacific Coast, now in charge of the Sixth Infantry in Porto Rico. Col. Falls will go to Chicago to take charge of executive work in connection with the National Guard.

The raising of the standard of the post also will bring Col. Peagram C. Whitworth, now stationed at the University of Alabama, to take command of the Sixth Infantry.

COLLEGE Y. W. C. A. HELPS POOR
Lindenwood Girls Are Giving Food and Fuel to 11 Families.

Food and fuel are being distributed to 11 families in St. Charles through the charity of the Y. W. C. A. at Lindenwood College. Miss Lillian Bloemendael, a senior, reported in chapel recently.

The organization has collected $155 and two boxes of clothing for the poor, she said. The clothing has been turned over to the change club, a distribute but it fund is administered by the girls themselves.

ARTHUR LORENZ GETS 20 YEARS FOR PART IN $2,000,000 FRAUD

Former Partner in Cochran Enterprises Sentenced to Federal Prison.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 22.—Arthur Lorenz, former partner of C. A. Cochran, convicted promoter of the Volks Zeitung, German language newspaper, and other enterprises which cost Northwest investors $2,000,000, was sentenced today to 20 years in Leavenworth prison for his part in the promotion.

O. W. Klose and W. R. Stack, salesmen of the securities of the Cochran enterprises, convicted with Lorenz, were sentenced to seven and five years, respectively. Execution was stayed 30 days to permit motion for a new trial.

Lorenz, Stack and Klose were among 22 persons indicted for using the mails to defraud in connection with Cochran's promotion schemes. Thirteen of the defendants, headed by Cochran, were tried and most of them found guilty. Cochran previously had been sentenced to 20 years' imprisonment. The Government charged that various enterprises represented by the defendants to investors as going concerns were non-existent; the Volks Zeitung was an exception.

Missouri Lady Has Problem

As a rule, milk is about the best food for children, but there are times when they are much better off without it. It should always be left off when children show by feverish, fretful or cross spells, by bad breath, coated tongue, yellow skin, indigestion, biliousness, etc., that their stomach and bowels are out of order.

In cases like this, California Fig Syrup never fails to work wonders, by the quick and gentle way it removes all the souring waste which is causing the trouble, regulates the stomach and bowels and gives these organs tone and strength so they continue to act normally, of their own accord. Children love its rich, fruity flavor and it's purely vegetable and harmless, even for babies.

Millions of mothers have proved its merits and reliability in over 50 years of steadily increasing use. A Missouri mother, Mrs. Wardie Kloeris, 5206 Kansas St., St. Louis, says: "My little girl, Juanita's tendency to constipation was a problem to me until I began giving her California Fig Syrup. It helped her right away and soon her stomach and bowels were acting perfectly. Since then I've never had to have any advice about her bowels. I have also used California Fig Syrup with my older girl, with equal success."

To be sure of getting the genuine, which physicians endorse, always ask for California Fig Syrup by the full name.

Now Quickly Relieved by Eopa Neuritis Tablets

"I have used your Eopa Neuritis Tablets at different times and find them very helpful. I am taking them at the present time for pain in the shoulder running up to the back of my neck and ear. This is my second day and I have found great relief."

(Signed) Mrs. H. J. Suhlheimrich.

A few Eopa Neuritis Tablets usually give quick relief regardless of whether the pains are in your arms, legs, neck, shoulder, or any other part of the body. In cases where the pain is terribly sharp and agonizing, take two tablets every two hours until relieved. Eopa Neuritis Tablets are compounded from a physician's prescription. They act specifically to relieve nerve inflammation, the cause of neuritis, and to tone up the worn-out nerves. Guaranteed free from narcotics, bromides, and heart-depressing drugs. At your druggist. Always Walgreen Drug and Wolff-Wilson Drug Co's.

WELL-KNOWN ST. LOUIS WOMAN WRITES LETTER TO RHEUMATIC SUFFERERS

Suffered With Rheumatic Arthritis Three Years Ordinary Remedies Failed to Reach Her Case GIVES WELDONA CREDIT—WANTS PUBLIC TO INVESTIGATE

THE WELDONA MAN.

Identified. Mrs. Hauck is a well-known midwife and has lived in St. Louis for a number of years. Her letter was as follows:

"For three years I suffered with rheumatism of the joints, or arthritis. My both knees were sore and stiff and creaked and snapped. It was very painful for me to get up from a chair, and I would have to go up and down stairs, one foot at a time. In the morning my joints were exceedingly stiff and painful. "I had a number of physicians and tried remedies, as well as the baths at Okawville without any improvement in my condition, and was about to give up all hope of ever walking with any comfort when Weldon tablets were brought to my attention. After a few weeks' treatment I can now walk as well as ever. My knees have lost the pain and stiffness, and I cannot recommend Weldon too highly to all sufferers of rheumatism. If anyone wishes to investigate my case I would be glad to have them call, write or telephone—Lindell 0109." $1000 reward to anyone proving this testimonial is not genuine.

Weldon tablets are always put up in a box—never in a bottle. Ask for Weldon tablets, which are recommended for rheumatism and rheumatic conditions only. Weldon tablets are absolutely harmless and will not upset the stomach, affect the heart or any other organ.

The Weldon representative, who now meets the public every day at Walgreen's Drug Store, 514 Washington Av., St. Louis, gladly explains more about this remedy and gives out the 24-page book, entitled "Germs of Rheumatism," which are absolutely free of charge to all who call or write for them.

TRAIN CREW CLEARED IN CROSSING DEATHS

Engineer and Fireman Tell of Crash Fatal to Broker and Child.

Charles W. Schank, engineer of the Frisco train which struck the automobile of Arthur Wait, leather broker, at the Elm avenue crossing in Webster Groves yesterday, killing Wait and his 3-year-old daughter. Hope, testified today at the inquest that he had had a similar accident at the same crossing, on Dec. 6, 1926, in which two persons were killed. Schank and his fireman, Dan C. Thompson, were exonerated of blame in yesterday's accident.

In the 1926 accident Schank's train struck a milk wagon and killed Henry Hoch, a dairyman, outright and fatally injured Hoch's cousin, Ernest Lindeman. Thompson testified at today's inquest, which was held in an undertaking establishment at 15 West Lockwood avenue, Webster Groves, that he saw Wait's car when the train was about 80 feet from the crossing and, thinking Wait did not see the approaching locomotive, shouted a warning to Schank. Schank said he applied the emergency brake immediately, but that he was unable to stop until after the engine had struck the automobile and run several hundred feet past the crossing. The train's speed was about 45 miles an hour, he said.

A. F. Algoet, crossing watchman, testified that Wait apparently was unaware of the train's approach and "drove directly into its path at a rate of about 15 miles an hour. The crossing bell was ringing at the time, he said, and he tried to signal Wait by waving his hands.

A woman motorist was fatally injured Nov. 28, 1927, when her automobile was struck by a Frisco train at a point a mile west of Elm avenue, and a man was killed at a crossing a mile east when his automobile was struck by a train Dec. 17, 1925.

Wait lived at 114 Trevillian avenue, Glendale, and was driving his daughter to school when the accident occurred. The train was east-bound and Wait was driving south. Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. at Webster Groves Congregational Church. Burial will be in Boston. Wait was a graduate of Harvard University, and a member of the Harvard Club of St. Louis.

GERK TELLS POLICE TO WATCH FOR CROOKS FROM CHICAGO

Orders That Suspicious Looking Persons Be Searched for Concealed Weapons.

Chief of Police Gerk warned the department today that increased police activity in Chicago might send some of its gunmen toward St. Louis.

He asked police to be especially alert in looking over strangers in the city. Suspicious persons should be searched for concealed weapons, he warned.

"The activity of Chicago police will mean a general exodus from the city of all gunmen and crooks," the Chief's statement continued.

"If there are strange faces with the local crooks, bring them all in. Particular attention should be directed to traffic over the bridges and it should be established that St. Louis is no haven for crooks driven from any other city," he said.

INFLUENZA EPIDEMIC WANES

New Cases Only a Third of Number Reported a Week Ago.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Reports to the Public Health Service today showed there were 23,698 new cases of influenza in 25 states and the District of Columbia compared with 60,659 cases in the same territory during the preceding week. Public Health officials said influenza continued to increase in New England and Louisiana, but that marked decreases in all other sections of the country showed that the peak of the wave has definitely been passed.

A total of 964,927 cases were reported from Oct. 14 to Jan. 12. Officials estimate that this indicated that there have been at least 1,000,000 cases during the epidemic.

Madame Fournier, the marshal's daughter who was summoned when his illness was grave, returned to Clermont Ferrand today.

Doctor Discovers Harmless, Scientific Treatment for Fat People

This amazing discovery, made by a leading St. Louis physician and used with the utmost success in his private practice, enables you to reduce your fat at any desired rate, without the slightest harmful effect, and without causing any wrinkles. No exercise, no starvation diet, no massage, no pills or enemas. It causes the fat to be absorbed and passed off in a perfectly natural way by restoring activity to certain glands and regulating the liver and bowel action. The results are astounding.

FREE TEST. Realizing that actual treatment will convince you more than we can hope to say about our system, we agree, that if you are not satisfied that our treatment will do all we claim for DEMONSTRATION you will owe us nothing. No fairer offer could be made than this. Consultation free.

OPENS COURT WITH PRAYER

Judge Establishes New Custom in Missouri Judicial Circles. HOUSTON, Mo., Jan. 22.—Opening sessions of Circuit Court with prayer, Judge Will H. D. Green has established a new custom in Missouri judicial circles. Judge Green was elected Judge of the Twentieth Circuit in November, defeating Judge E. P. Dorris for re-election, after the latter had served 12 years on the bench. Judge Green lives at West Plains and Judge Dorris at Afton. The Twentieth Circuit comprises the counties of Carter, Oregon, Howell and Shannon.

Judge Green held his first term of court at Eminence, Shannon County, the past week and each morning some local minister was invited to open the court session with prayer. The Judge announced his intention of continuing these devotional services in each county throughout his term.

"We know our Luckies That's how we stay slender"

EVERY woman who fears overweight finds keen interest in new-day and common-sense ways to keep a slender, fashionable figure. Overweight must be avoided. "Better to light a Lucky whenever you crave fattening sweets."

Toasting does it. Toasting develops and improves the flavor of the world's finest tobaccos. Lucky Strike satisfies the longing for things that make you fat, without interfering with a normal appetite for healthful foods. That's why Luckies are good to smoke. Toasting makes Lucky Strike the healthy cigarette for you to smoke.

Many men who carefully watch their health discovered this years ago. They know that Luckies steady their nerves and do not slow up their physical vigor—prominent athletes have gone on record that this is so. They know that 20,679 physicians have stated that Luckies are less irritating to the throat than other cigarettes.

A reasonable proportion of sugar in the diet is recommended, but the authorities are overwhelming, that too many fattening sweets are harmful and that too many such are eaten by the American people. So, for moderation's sake we say:—

"REACH FOR A LUCKY INSTEAD OF A SWEET."

SCHOOL BOARD PARTY RETURNS FROM TOUR

St. Louis Vocational Plans Comparable With Best Elsewhere, They Say.

The party of six members and four officers of the Board of Education which returned Sunday from a two-week tour in which vocational schools in four cities were studied, came back satisfied that plans for the vocational school to be erected on the site of Central High School compare favorably with the best that is offered elsewhere. No material changes in the plans approved last fall are expected, according to R. M. Milligan, Commissioner of School Buildings, who accompanied the party.

Arthur A. Blumeyer, president of the board, observed that St. Louis elementary schools were on a par with the cities visited, "but in provision for technical and intermediate education we have not reached a level comparable to that which we found in other cities." The cities visited were Detroit, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Toronto.

The party was particularly impressed with the technical schools of Toronto, which Blumeyer said "are recognized as the best in North America." The Cass Technical School in Detroit, a $5,000,000 building with a capacity of 5,000 and a daily attendance of 13,000, also won the approval of the St. Louisans. The school is open from 8 a. m. until 10 p. m. The same plan will be followed in St. Louis, where a capacity of 4,000 will permit an attendance of 12,000 by having three sessions each day.

Toronto Has Board of 18.

In Toronto and Cleveland, Blumeyer found features of school administration which seemed superior to the methods of St. Louis. Toronto's school board of 18 is elected, one member from each ward. The board is divided into committees, one for elementary schools, one for technical schools, another for finances, another for business management, another for high schools.

"This results," Blumeyer said, "in board members acquiring a more thorough understanding of the difference phases of the school system."

"In Cleveland I was especially impressed with the way authority is delegated to assistants of the Superintendent. They are given administrative and executive authority. Their salary schedules, methods of promotion and appointments of teachers, appear superior to ours. They have worked out an arrangement with Western Reserve University for the training of their elementary school teachers, which we will study thoroughly."

Plan for Collegiate Schooling.

"Educational systems suited to the needs of great cities such as St. Louis are based on two leading ideas. First, provision should be made for a cultural or collegiate plan of general education, the purpose of which is the perfection of men and women as intellectual, moral and spiritual beings, attaching secondary importance to the use they may make of acquired knowledge in ordinary business life."

"Second, provision should be made for training young people in the technical knowledge and skill needed in making a living, in doing well the work that a great city needs to have done, laying special emphasis upon that technical knowledge by means of which man obtains mastery over the forces of nature."

The vocational school here, one unit of which will house Central High School temporarily, will be more than twice as large as any other public school in St. Louis. It will be a five-story structure with a Gothic facade on Grand boulevard, and will extend back 742 feet to Channing avenue. The cost is estimated at $2,700,000.

MAYOR OF ALL-JEWISH CITY TO VISIT ST. LOUIS

David Bloch is Chief Executive of Tel Aviv, Palestine, the Los Angeles of the Near East.

Mayor David Bloch of Tel Aviv, Palestine, the only exclusively Jewish city in the world, will visit St. Louis next Sunday.

Tel Aviv has been called the Los Angeles of the Near East and is a new city, having been founded as a suburb of Jaffa in 1910. Forty-five thousand of the 50,000 inhabitants have settled there since 1922. There are two daily newspapers, printed in modern Hebrew, a Hebrew opera and a Hebrew theater.

Twenty-five hundred commercial and industrial organizations have sprung up and are in construction, the leading industry is modern. Circuit Judge Sale is honorary chairman of the Reception Committee. Dr. Alex S. Wolf is general chairman. Mayor Bloch will be the guest of Mayor Miller at luncheon and he will speak at a dinner in the former's honor Sunday evening.

BEAUTY AND UTILITY

ARE COMBINED

IN THE NEW FORD

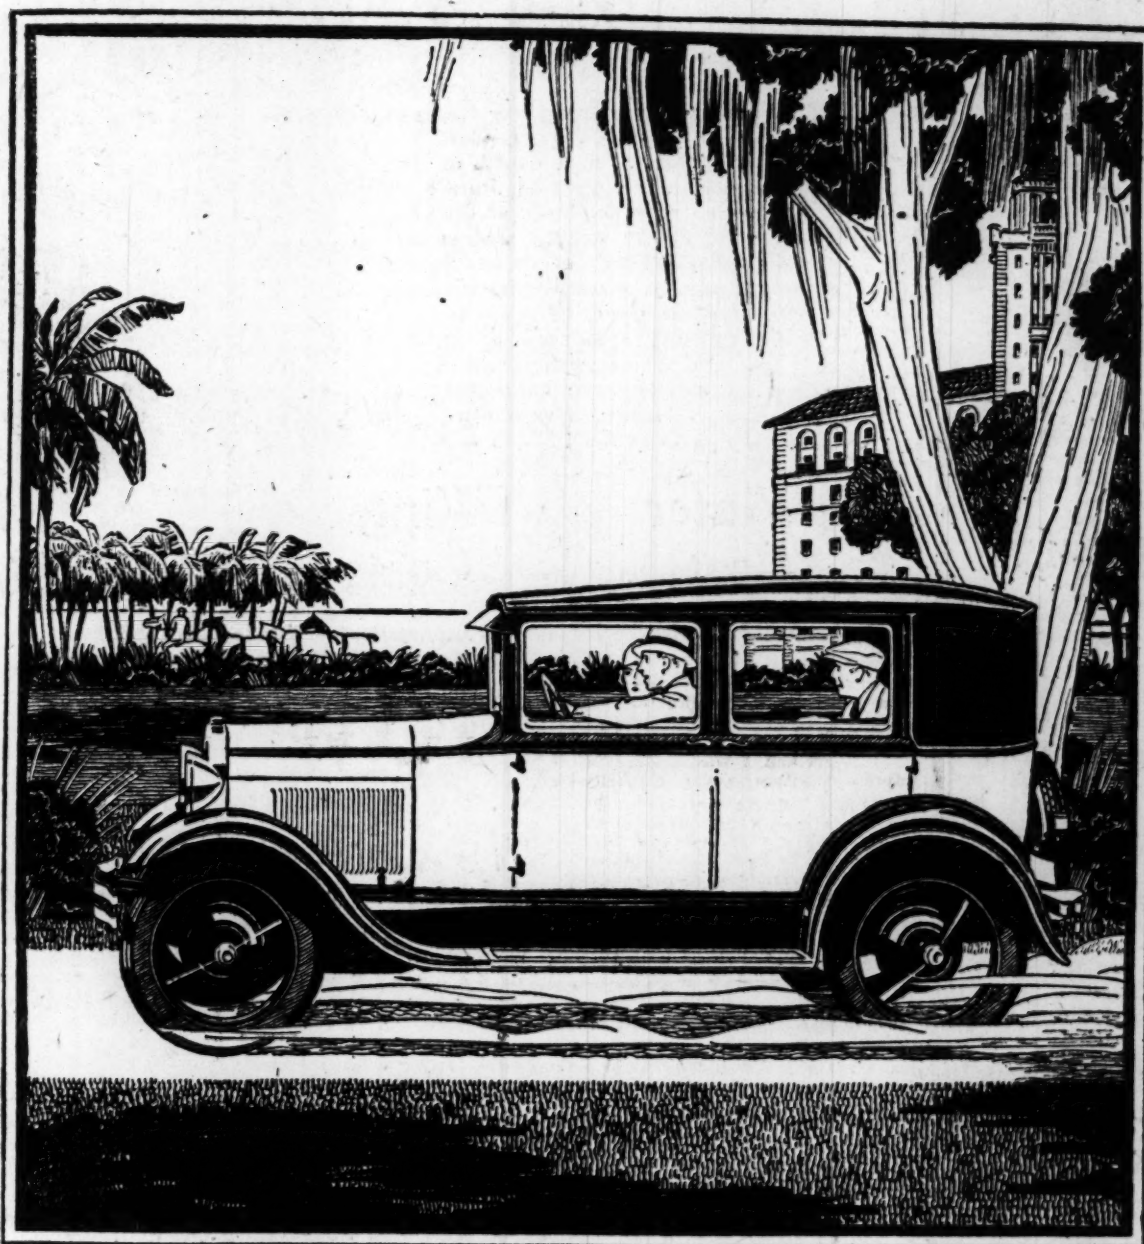

WHEN you see the new Ford, you are impressed instantly by its trim, graceful lines and air of sturdy strength. Its very appearance is a reflection of the alert, capable performance of the car. Without being extreme, it has struck a new note in automobile designing.

A particularly interesting feature of the new Ford is the way beauty has been combined with utility. This is found in the length, width and height of the body, the size and shape of the radiator, the position of the gasoline tank in the cowl, the outward flow of the body, the design of the welded steel spoke wheels, the shape and position of the full nicked headlamps, the sweep and curve of the heavy full crown fenders.

Everything has been planned for service

When a thing perfectly fits its uses, it is pleasing to the eye. Every part of the new Ford has been designed and built not only to be attractive, but with a very definite thought of the work it has to do.

Even in the very little things you can see evidence of quality of material, careful workmanship and quiet good taste. The upholstery is of woolen material, rich and luxurious, yet long-wearing.

Attractive colors add to beauty of the new Ford

Every one of the new Ford body types is available in a choice of several beautiful two-tone color harmonies with attractive striping. This is an unusual feature in a low-price car.

The finish is pyroxylin lacquer, selected for its enduring qualities. It is not affected by heat or cold, is not easily marred or scratched, and polishes to a beautiful luster. Once a month at least your car should be washed and polished.

The beauty of the Ford is not of the outside only, but extends deep down into every part—even to those hidden parts which you may never see. In the eyes of the engineer and technical man, the mechanical beauty of the new Ford is one of its greatest features.

The practical beauty of a fine machine

There is beauty, for instance, in the fine steel forgings which are used everywhere in the chassis of the new Ford where there is a possibility of wear—in the manner in which electric welding has been developed to give increased strength without increased weight—in the simplicity of the cooling, lubrication, ignition, and

The new Ford Business Coupe has been especially designed for professional men, executives, salesmen—for all who use an automobile constantly for business use. Handy package space behind seat and unusually large rear deck are welcome features.

The new Fordor Sedan is impressively smart yet sturdy and substantial. An unusually comfortable car because of its wide, deeply cushioned seats, generous room between front and rear seats, transverse springs and Houdaille hydraulic shock absorbers. Finished in a choice of beautiful two-tone color harmonies.

fuel systems—in the extensive use of ball and roller bearings—in the simple operation of the fully enclosed six-brake system—in the close limits of accuracy maintained in the manufacture of important parts—in the way the engine develops its speed, acceleration and power without sacrificing reliability or economy.

To the man who drives his automobile many thousands of miles every year and who looks to it for continuous service at low cost, this mechanical beauty is of more importance even than beauty of line and finish.

For it is a reflection of simplicity of design, quality of materials and careful workmanship, which are the three fundamental factors in motor car performance.

There is indeed no greater tribute to the value of the new Ford than the simple, homely phrase which you hear so often from Ford owners, experienced garage mechanics and all who know and understand the workings of an automobile—"It is a sweet mechanical job."

DRY FUND IN HANDS OF THE PRESIDENT

BLAINE ASSAILS LAW

Than U. S. Agents.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A plan to place a $24,000,000 prohibition enforcement fund in the hands of the President was advanced in the Senate today by Senator Harris (Dem.), Georgia, who precipitated the most recent wet and dry argument with his proposal to add $25,000,000 to the amount now available for the work.

As debate on the subject was resumed, the Georgian urged that the appropriation, which Secretary Mellon has opposed at this time, be turned over to the White House for allocation to the coast guard, border patrol, Department of Justice and all other agencies connected with enforcement.

Senator George of Georgia came to the support of his colleague in the demand for the increase in the prohibition fund. He declared that all prohibition arguments came down to a statement by the wet, that the Volstead law could not be enforced, and a statement by the dry that it could be enforced if an honest effort were made.

Fears It Will Be Issue. George predicted that the prohibition issue would play a part in the 1932 presidential campaign unless such an effort were made. "The people do not want prohibition made a political issue," he said.

The argument also drew into the picture Senator Bruce, Democrat, who declared that prohibition would be enforced but only with laws so stringent and a force so large that personal liberty would no longer exist in the United States. After several unsuccessful attempts, Senator Curtis of Kansas, the Republican leader, obtained an agreement to limit debate. A vote late today was made possible by the agreement.

George said he thought the incoming President should be given every encouragement to make a sweeping investigation of prohibition, but he said he did not think an increased appropriation would embarrass him.

Bruce and George disagreed over the extent of drinking in large cities such as New York in comparison with smaller cities. The former contended there was less intoxication in large cities because of the foreign population, which, he said, drinks light wines rather than hard liquor.

"I do not think prohibition is indicative of a high order of civilization," Bruce declared. "I think it is indicative of a low order."

Tales of the stringent laws of Puritan days in New England and stories on "dry voting" Legislators who were intoxicated when they voted for prohibition bills filled the record of the Senate yesterday as Senator Blaine (Rep.) of Wisconsin talked for nearly three hours while the advocates of the naval war bill stood by impatiently.

Blaine made an extended attack upon laws which he said invaded a person's right to liberty. He declared it was impossible to make the individual by legislation.

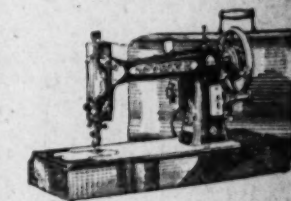

During his discussion he told a story of a prohibition enforcement official in Wisconsin who, as a member of the State Legislature, was taken home in a taxicab after voting for a prohibition bill because, Blaine declared, "he was not able to get home any other way."

Assails Puritans. Assailing the laws against personal liberty invoked by the Puritans, Blaine declared that "no one used his liquor so much, his tobacco so much, or hated his neighbor so much as the Puritan."

"Every device of which human mind was capable was originated to destroy individual liberty of every human being and reduce them to a standard where the best could no better than the worst," Blaine declared. "So there was created this category of sin and sinners by law until the stamina of colonies was threatened."

The difference between those great and these days is not very great. The Colonists soon made up their minds that half of the people would not put the rest in jail. "There is no legislative body now that can make a thing a crime and sin. Any law which finds no sanction in man's conscience will be ignored."

Tyranny of History. Tyranny of history was reviewed by the Senator in a comparison

BLAINE ASSAILS LAW AS 'VICIOUS TYRANNY'

Wisconsin Man Says Cos-
tacks or Black-and-Tan Troops Are No Worse

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A plan to place a $24,000,000 prohibition enforcement fund in the hands of the President was advanced in the Senate today by Senator Harris (Ga.), Georgia, who precipitated the most recent wet and dry argument with his proposal to add $25-$30,000 to the amount now available for the work.

As debate on the subject was resumed, the Georgian urged that the prohibition law, which is a "constitutional" law, be turned over to the White house for allocation to the coast guard, border patrol, Department of Justice and all other agencies connected with enforcement.

Senator George of Georgia came to the support of his colleague in the demand for the increase in the prohibition fund. He declared that all prohibition arguments came down to a statement by the wets
that the Volstead law could not be enforced, and a statement by the drys that it could be enforced if an amount were made.

George predicted that the prohibition issue would play a part in the 1932 presidential campaign unless such an effort were made.

"The people do not want prohibition as a political issue," he said.

The argument also drew into the picture Senator Bruce, Democrat
of Wisconsin, who declared that prohibition could be enforced but only with laws so stringent and a force
so large that personal liberty would be sacrificed to make it so.

After several unsuccessful attempts, Senator Curtis of Kansas,
a Republican leader, obtained an agreement to limit debate. A vote late today was made possible by the agreement.

George said he thought the incompetence of the President should be given every consideration in the enforcement of prohibition, but he did not think an increased appropriation would embarrass him.

Bruce and George disagreed over the extent of drinking in large cities such as New York in comparison with smaller cities. The former contended there was less intemperance in large cities because of the foreign population, which, he said,
drinks light wines rather than hard liquor.

"I do not think prohibition is indicative of a high order of civilization," Bruce declared. "I think it is indicative of a low order."

Mass of Gold and Silver Ornaments Found With 45 Bodies in Death Pit in Ur

Headdresses, Wreaths and Hair Ribbons, Harps and Statues Unearthed in Cemetery
of Chaldees 5000 Years Old.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 22.— Thirty-four gold head dresses, inlaid pendants, wreaths and hair ribbons have been found in the large death pit recently excavated in Ur of the Chaldees by the expedition of the University of Pennsylvania and the British Museum.

Silver combs also were found in the death pit, in which the bodies of 45 persons sacrificed with Sumerian rites have been unearthed.
Details of the discoveries are given in a report just received from C.
Leonard Woolley, director of the expedition.

In addition, three harps of unusual design and a pair of statues of rams, of gold, silver, white shell
and lapis lazuli have been found.
The statues are unique in the experience of the archaeologists, and are described as "two of the most remarkable objects of antiquity
that Sumeria has yet produced."

Seeking Tomb Underneath.
In reporting the discovery of the death pit Woolley declared the pit should be the entrance to an actual tomb, and that the workers were now digging from the modern surface in the hope of finding a tomb beneath it.

"The rim of a large copper vessel was the first thing to be found," the report stated. "Another vessel appeared next to it and then came the black stain of decayed wood. Very careful clearing here laid bare the perfect impression of the wheels of a wagon
although the wagon itself had long since disappeared.

"In front of the impression lay the skeletons of two asses and a groom, and among the bones could be seen the line of silver and lapis lazuli beads which had decorated the reins. It was just such a wagon as we found in the grave of a King of Ur last season.

"The mud floor on which the wagon had stood had been covered with matting, and toward the sides of the shaft this rose deeply as if it had been forced down in the
with enforcement of prohibition.

He termed the prohibition law
"the most vicious system of tyranny which has ever been known under the sun." He said that the Black and Tan E. Irish troops in Ireland were "no more to be de-tested than the spies and agents of the American system."

"Rome in her balmy days," said
the Senator, "was infested with 10,000 spies and became a decadent nation for 1000 years. Spy government that must depend on force is a weak government."

Blaine declared he did not agree with all the criticism of Secretary
Mellon's enforcement of the law.
"I don't believe Mr. Mellon has laxly enforced the law," he said.
"I don't believe he can enforce it."

Denies Federal Regulation
of Coal Would Be Illegal Council for United Mine Workers Asserts Product Is in Interstate Commerce.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Testimony designed to counteract that of the National Coal Association,
that the bill to regulate the bituminous industry is unconstitutional, was offered before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee today by Henry Warrum, counsel for the United Mine Workers.

Coal, Warrum declared, was in interstate commerce and therefore the Federal Government had the right to regulate its production and sale. If the coal industry is to be regulated at all, he contended, it would be necessary for the Government to do it, because the states themselves had no right to do so.

Referring to the testimony offered for the Attorney-General of West Virginia, that the bill was an invasion of state's rights, Warrum said the Attorney-General was opposing the bill, not because it invaded his State's rights, but "because it would interfere with its corporations."

center by the weight of the wagon
and its team.

"Such a thing could happen only if the soil beneath is soft and had recently been disturbed, so we began to dig down alongside the impression of the wagon.

"After penetrating to a depth of about three feet we found the skeletons of other animals, including sheep, a collection of copper vases and weapons and the bones of a man.

"Here was a novel feature. The bodies of the victims and the offerings had been placed in the grave pit, earth had been heaped above them and stamped down and mats laid over the top. Following that the wagon had been driven in and the slaughter of beasts and grooms had been a later act in the burial tragedy.

"For more than a week we have been at work clearing the last nine inches or more of soil that covered the floor of the space still remains to be examined, but already we have listed 45 bodies, of which at least 29 are of women. The riches found with them are astonishing.

Nine Court Ladies Found.
"In the King's grave last year
we found nine court ladies wearing head dresses of gold and semi-precious stones. Here there are already 24 such, and for the most part they are far more splendid,
for the best are only less remarkable than the head dress of Queen Shub-Ad herself.

"Gold hair ribbons, wreaths of gold leaves and flowers, inlaid
pendants, great lunette earrings,
silver 'combs' with flowers of colored inlay, pins of silver and gold,
necklaces of gold and lapis row
upon row—all these conspired to form an amazing display.

"Another corner of the pit yielded two objects absolutely unique in our experience—a pair of statues of rampant rams. The heads and legs of the beasts are of gold, the horns and the long hair
over the shoulders are of lapis lazuli, and the fleeces is of white shell, each tuft carved separately.
The bellies are of silver."

THINK PAPAL STATE MAY CAUSE FRICTION

Italians Fear Also That Foreign Pontiff May Some Day Be Chosen.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch
and New York World.
Copyright, 1929 by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Co., New York World
and Post-Dispatch.

ROME, Jan. 22.—Both Fascist
and papal press remain silent about the negotiations proceeding between Premier Mussolini and the Pope for settlement of the Roman question, but to make up for their significant silence, the citizens talk about nothing else with such zest.

The possibilities of a separate papal state open up many vistas.
Not the least interesting of these
who is not an Italian upon St.
Peter's throne before many years pass.

Roman speculation thinks the next Pope may be Cardinal Merry Del Val, a Spaniard, who was Secretary of State under Pius X and a member of the Roman curia, now arch-bishop of St. Peter's basilica.

After him, it is said, the time will be ripe for an American Pope.
The idea of a non-Italian pontiff displeases Romans who urge the necessity of putting a clause in whatever agreement Mussolini and the Pope may sign whereby the papacy will be safeguarded for Italian interests.

King Victor Emmanuel III is credited with having opposed the idea of a settlement of the long-standing controversy between Italy and the Vatican until recently, but is understood to have been won over. The latest available information on the negotiations touches on the delicate question of the Pope's means of communication with the outside world. He asked for a wireless transmitting station,
but the Italian military chiefs protested that it would mean a possible spies' nest in event of war. A compromise was reached, it is understood, by agreeing to let the Pope have a wireless so much weaker than the military station at Frascati, near Rome, that the latter would be able to control the papal station.

The question of customs also is a knotty one. The Pope holds out for his own officers and staff; but the Premier wishes for Italian control. Whether or not the small station on the Rome-Viterbo Railroad, to be known as St. Peter's station, will be under control of the Vatican remains a moot question.

As negotiations proceed many zealous Catholics, who also are patriotic Italians, are coming to realize that if settlement comes there will be endless occasions for friction between the two states unless the subjects of both exercise
a great deal of tact.

TALK OF OTHER THINGS BLOCKS CRUISER BILL

Opponents of Naval Construction Make No Speeches Against It and Deny Filibustering.

TACTICS THREATEN LEGISLATIVE TIUEUP

Warren Threatens to Keep Senate in Session All Night to Get Deficiency Bill Passed.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—With six weeks to go, the Senate was involved today in a deluge of talk
by enemies of the cruiser construction bill which for the time being at least threatens a tieup of the entire legislative program.

Charges of a filibuster against the naval bill were renewed by its friends as its opponents prepared to talk at length on the pending deficiency appropriation measure.
Senate leaders already have mapped out a program to force the cruiser bill to a vote but the tantalizing tactics of the opposition in talking at length on other legislation is forestalling even this.

The Senate was informed today
that it might have to stay in session through the night to pass the deficiency bill. Notification that he would endeavor to keep the Senate on duty after the regular closing hour was given by Chairman Warren of the Appropriations Committee, and it was welcomed by supporters of the cruiser bill.

Plan to Sidetrack Denied.
Senator Harrison (Dem.) Mississippi, today asked Senator Warren if Republican leaders had agreed to sidetrack the appropriation bills in order to give the cruiser bill "clear sailing." Senator Warren said he had not entered into such an agreement.

It developed at the White House
that, although reluctant to forecast when the Senate will reach a vote on the cruiser bill, President Coolidge is confident that the measure will receive favorable action.

When they get the deficiency bill passed, Senate leaders intend to return to the unfinished business—
the cruiser measure—and to keep it before the Senate until a vote is taken. If necessary, they are prepared to seek the cloture rule limiting debate but this requires a two-thirds vote.

This program involves the side-tracking of the appropriation bills which are necessary to provide money for next year's government expenditures. Usually everything is sacrificed for passage of these bills in order to forestall the necessity of an extra session. But President Hoover's desire for the extra session has removed some of the normal pressure against this proposal.

Filibuster Denied.
The series of speeches which opponents of the naval bill deny is a filibuster, is one of the most novel in Senate history. So far,
not a speech in opposition to the proposal of 15 cruisers and an airplane carrier has been made. All of the talking by the opposites has been done on other legislation.

In accordance with the usual practice in the Senate, Chairman Hale of the Naval Committee, in charge of the cruiser bill, has given way as appropriation bills come along. But for more than four days the Senate has been trying without success to act on the deficiency appropriation bill.

Only three of the regular supply bills sent over by the House
have been passed by the Senate and only two of these have gone through the conference stages and been sent to the White House.

Senator Norris of Nebraska, a leader of the Republican independent group, informed Senate leaders today that he had no intention of conducting a filibuster. Other opponents gave the same answer to the officially-repeated charge of friends of the cruiser bill that a filibuster was in progress. Norris gave notice that a stubborn fight would be made against the bill and that attempts would be made to cut down the authorization from 15 to 10 or to five cruisers, but he said
no effort would be made to prevent a final vote.

NIAGARA TREATY MADE PUBLIC

Insure Beauty of Falls.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has made public the text of a treaty negotiated between the United States and Canada to insure the permanency of the beauty of Niagara Falls.

The treaty seeks to regulate the flow of water over the falls so that a steady stream may be so distributed as to insure a continuance of the sight which has made Niagara Falls famous.

BILL TO REPEAL WORKMEN'S ACT URGED IN HOUSE

Judiciary Committee Likely to Report Favorably on Legislation Offered by Roberts.

ATTORNEYS CHIEF SUPPORTERS OF IT

Author of Measure to Offer Resolution for Investigation of Activities of Associated Industries.

By CURTIS A. BETTS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—
The Roberts bill to repeal the Workmen's Compensation Act,
which, on its introduction was not taken very seriously, is no longer being ignored by business and labor interests of the State. While it cannot be said there is a possibility
the measure will pass, the fight
being exerted to restore the ambilance chasers' paradise, which existed before enactment of the law,
is sufficiently strong to compel notice.

The repeal bill will be reported favorably by the House Judiciary Committee, probably by a unanimous vote. A number of the members of the committee are attorneys, most of whom suffered a loss of income
as a result of the act, which substituted adjustment by the commission for personal damage suits
by injured employees.

For Associated Industries Inquiry.
Anticipating opposition to the repeal by the Associated Industries, Representative Roberts of Crawford County, its author, today announced that he had prepared a resolution for an investigation of the association by the Legislature.
Roberts charges the use of large funds by the association to obtain the passage of the compensation act, asserts the association maintains an expensive lobby in Jefferson City, with expensive offices in various parts of the State, and that it has expended large sums in promoting its interests in the Legislature.

The resolution is considered here
to be a part of the effort to repeal the compensation law.
Robert's resolution was read to the House today, but action on it was deferred until tomorrow at the request of Representative Polite Elkins of St. Louis County, who said he wished to present some amendments.

While the damage suit attorneys constitute only a small minority of the House membership, they exercise an influence in the House much greater than their numerical strength and it would not be surprising if the Roberts bill passes
in order to forestall the necessity of an extra session.

Although there is a House committee specifically chosen to handle workmen's compensation legislation, Speaker Parker, an attorney,
did not send the Roberts bill to that committee, where it belonged.
Instead, he sent it to the Judiciary Committee.

Advocates of the bill say there will be no question about its passage in the House, and that if the repeal fails it will be because the Senate refuses to concur.

It is more than likely that the final outcome will be that the repeal act will be shelved and in place of it there will be an attempt to amend the present law, though that is not going to be easily accomplished.

There are many complaints that the schedule of payments for injuries are far too low, attorneys citing case after case in which the compensation permitted under the law has been far from adequate to meet the needs of the injured man.
There also is much complaint regarding the provision under which appeals may be taken from the decision of the commission. Attorneys insist that it is virtually impossible to take an appeal.

PRESIDENTIAL PRIMARY GETS BILL OF HEALTH

No Improperities Found by Senators in $894,096 Expenditures.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Jan. 21.—The presidential primary campaign cost
the 15 candidates in the two major parties $894,096 and it was money legitimately spent in the opinion of the Senate Campaign Funds Investigation Committee.

Chairman Steiwer of the committee yesterday submitted the report today to the Senate dealing only with the pre-convention campaign and he included a recommendation from the committee for

Herbert Hoover reported the largest amount with pre-conven-

the Democratic nomination was the next largest spender in the primaries, the committee putting his expenditures at $152,622.53.

Frank O. Lowden who made a determined fight for the Republican nomination was third in line
in expenditures with $87,415.97 and the late Senator Frank Willis of Ohio, was fourth with expenses of $66,554.52.

The committee reported $75-

which it was unable to allot to any single candidate.

the persons engaged in handling

"The committee recommends the enactment of adequate legislation

ANNUAL REPORT TO CONGRESS ON CREDITS

Judiciary Committee Assails System by Which Former Employees of Treasury Appear for Corporations.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-
Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—A bill to abolish the secrecy surrounding the granting of large tax refunds
by the Federal Government has been favorably reported by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

It resulted from the startling
disclosure that more than $2,500-000,000 in Federal taxes has been turned back to the taxpayers during the eight years that Andrew W. Mellon has been Secretary of the Treasury. The largest refunds have been to the great corporations, some of them applying on taxes which were collected during the Wilson administration.

The bill was drafted by Senator
McKellar (Dem.), Tennessee. It would provide that all refunds and credits in excess of $10,000 must be approved by the Board of Tax Appeals, whose members are appointed by the President, and only after public hearings. It would also provide for an annual report to Congress of all refunds and credits
in excess of $500.

Under the present procedure, refunds and credits are made by officials of the Treasury Department,
and are surrounded with the utmost secrecy, although recent inquiries resulted in disclosing the identity of two corporations which had received huge refunds from the department.

Scathing condemnation of the practices followed by Treasury officials in making refunds and credits is contained in the Judiciary Committee report. It declares that "no favoritism has been shown to the richest class of taxpayers. Refunds of $7,000,000 to the United States Steel Corporation and of $8,500,000 to the Reynolds Tobacco Co. are cited as examples."

"Condition Invites Abuse."
"I believe the country would be shocked if it realized the magnitude of these refunds and the conditions under which they are made," McKellar declared. "Secretary Mellon is annually giving back to the taxpayers—with the emphasis heavily in favor of the richest taxpayers—a sum of money equal to the annual cost of maintaining the United States Army."

"It is all done in secrecy. Treasury officials holding that not even Congress is entitled to know the names of the persons and corporations to whom these vast sums are being paid out of the public treasury, although Congress is required to appropriate the money for them."

"In presenting their claims for refunds and credits, some of these corporations have been represented
by attorneys who formerly were employed in the Department. These attorneys argue their cases before men who until recently were their associates and subordinates. It is obvious that such a condition invites the most scandalous abuses."

The report of the Judiciary Committee cites such an instance in connection with the refund to the Steel Corporation. Prior to Sept.

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare, never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

Opposes West End Site for City Hospital

No. 2.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I DO not understand that there could be any question as to the proper location of City Hospital No. 2 for Negroes. Doctors and other authorities who are in a position to give a wise and unbiased judgment have stated that building this hospital as an annex to our City Hospital not only would secure for the patients the best treatment possible, as all the costly facilities with which our City Hospital is equipped could be made available for this new building, but in addition to this the city would save some $250,000 in building cost and $50,000 annually in operating cost. Now, where is there any sound reason for the clamoring of the Negro population to locate this hospital in the West End?

All taxpayers should be aroused by this question and should make it clear that their wish is for economy in the city's administration, and the Post-Dispatch could also do much good by using its great influence in this matter, as the Post-Dispatch is already advocating an increase in the tax rate. To locate this hospital in the West End is not in the best interest of all concerned and means squandering of money. The Board of Aldermen should never consent to it and should reject this unreasonable demand of the Negro population.

A Tribute to James O'Brien.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THE death was recorded on Jan. 13 of a man who was well known throughout the western part of the city, and who left his family the heritage of an honored name. The little shop of James O'Brien on Olive street was a landmark for thousands of citizens to whose homes this man had brought joy on the restoration of treasured family heirlooms. His store bore no evidence of great prosperity, nor did it display any apparent purpose on the part of its owner to acquire riches, yet he had a high ambition, and that was to labor faithfully and do well the work in which he took the pride of an artist. While going along in comparative obscurity, he lived up to a fine ideal of service, and in this achieved success.

The world of today might be better off for having more men of the skill and the character of the humble china mender.

The Zonta and Town Clubs.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THROUGHOUT your valuable People's Column I would like to say that, in these days of sordid selfishness, I consider the action of the Zonta Club of this city most refreshing. It does not often occur that one body of women will step in the breach to try to help another organization across a rough place and carry on to the realization of its fondest dreams.

It is still more refreshing to know that when it was proposed at a Zonta Club meeting that they initiate a series of parties and devote the proceeds to their older sister organization, the Town Club of St. Louis, there was not one dissenting voice.

Zonta is an international organization of women with Rotarian principles, and of the work of the St. Louis club is a criterion of what may be done by the national organization, it will be worthy of encouragement and approval.

It is hoped that co-operation, wholehearted and earnest, is being shown by the Town Club with its attractive building on Locust street, on a parity with other notable women's clubs of the U. S. A., some of which are large and own and manage very valuable properties, but I venture to say that the property of none of them is being shown in quite any more rapidly than that of the Town Club of St. Louis. All women of St. Louis should be interested in the success of those two outstanding organizations, and the things for which they stand.

Page Will Hays.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WE hear some criticism of the "AI" Smith method of making up the 1928 Democratic campaign deficit. Why resort to the laborious task of selling books when Will Hays is still with us? Let the saintly censor of the movies do the job. He has had experience in this kind of work. Furthermore, he has the rare faculty of being able to raise large sums of money with minimum effort.

It is possible that out of the 15,000,000 odd votes cast for Mr. Smith at least a half dozen of them were from oil men. Now let Mr. Hays get some of these poor fellows to buy some of their own oil and then later sell it back to themselves at a profit. He can then turn the profits into Government bonds. Later on he will no doubt be able to find a few generous-hearted Democrats who will be willing to accept these bonds with the understanding that they will contribute toward making up the deficit an equal amount in hard cash. Simple, isn't it? Now, boys, we're all overworked and in bad health. Let's take an extended vacation in Europe, including the movie censor.

AN OBSERVER.

HOW SECRECY IN GOVERNMENT WORKS.

When it was proposed to surround the income tax operation of the Treasury Department with secrecy, the Post-Dispatch vigorously protested, on the ground that there should never be any secrecy in government operations, and particularly in governmental transactions with citizens.

The rule of secrecy, however, was adopted by the Congress, and now that body is shocked to learn that more than $2,500,000,000 in Federal taxes have been turned back to taxpayers, mostly rich and powerful corporations, during the past eight years of Secretary Mellon's administration. The refunds were made secretly, in secret hearings, by officials of the Treasury Department, without the approval of any tax board. The refunds were made either in cash or credits. The Treasury Department is required to report cash refunds exceeding $75,000 to the Congressional Joint Committee on Taxation. But no report is made of credits, which, in the end, are equivalent to cash, being applied to current income tax payments. Within eight years credits to the amount of $1,600,000,000 have been given to corporations.

To show the abuses of the present system, the report of the Judiciary Committee of the Senate cites the case of the United States Steel Corporation, which has received refunds of $57,000,000. The attorneys of the United States Steel Corporation were Wayne Johnston, former Solicitor of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and one of his assistants, an attorney named Alverson. These men handled the claim of the corporation before officials who were formerly their associates. In that case the Government paid back on an assessment of $17,000,000 taxation $15,000,000, on the 1917 tax, and in addition, $11,000,000 interest. The corporation received a credit of $28,000,000 plus $3,000,000.

The average amount of refunds during the Mellon term has equaled $400,000,000 annually. The McKellar bill, designed to prevent these huge secret refunds, provides that all refunds exceeding $10,000 shall be approved, with public hearings, by the Board of Tax Appeals, and that all refunds above $500 shall be reported to Congress.

The condition revealed in the Treasury Department with regard to refunds emphasizes the danger of secrecy in the operation of governmental departments. Secrecy of governmental transactions is a constant temptation to corruption and abuse. Publicity is the only safeguard. Every veil thrown around governmental operations should be torn aside, so that the public may know what public officials are doing and may hold them accountable for their actions.

CLEMENTE MORENO'S STORY.

We have been casting about for the man who best could have done justice to the eerie tale of Clemente Moreno. His setting would have pleased Edgar Allan Poe immensely. He knew how to people the dead of night with ghostly horrors, and he could have described magnificently the scene in the church, all dark except for the feeble gleam of a sacramental lamp, when the two robbers advanced to the altar to steal the golden vessels. At this point, however, we should assign Alexandre Dumas to describe the subsequent events.

Dumas' flair for action and dramatic pace would make of them a breathless tale. How the chunky little Mexican janitor, awakened by noises in the church, jumped from bed with his hunting knife is distinctly Dumas stuff. Moreno's rage upon discovering that two shadowy figures had invaded the tabernacle of his church would be etched in a staccato passage. Dumas would warm to his work when Moreno rushed at the intruders with his uplifted blade, to be met by the knife of one of his adversaries.

Most of Dumas' heroes were swordsmen, but he could be expected to sense the different technique of the bowie knife. In vicious strokes, quick as those of an adder, Moreno battled with one of the men while the other pounded the broad and unheeding back with his fists. They fled. In the gloomy churchyard Moreno overtakes them, his flashing knife dealing out death, the ground strewn with the glittering emblems of his faith.

And should we permit De Maupassant to tell the yarn from here forward? He could write a little afterpiece describing the fear of the battered, pathetic little Mexican that he would be hanged for this deed.

MAX EASTMAN ON RUSSIA.

Max Eastman, who spoke at the Y. M. H. A. Sunday night, is trying to bring to the United States an understanding of Russia—not merely political Russia, but human Russia. It is a task beset with difficulties. There is a vast gulf between Western Europe and that Eastern country which is part Oriental, part barbarian and ever mysterious. We do not refer to the endless plains over which Napoleon once scurried before the ghosts of his dead legions, but rather to the temperamental and cultural chasm that separates them.

Even the wand of that dumpy, doughy little German Princess who became Catherine the Great lost its magic when she tried to use it to mingle the cultures of West and East. Voltaire regarded her overtures with a fishy eye and, while she lured Diderot and other intellectuals to her court, that was a passing phase. Her successors had little more success. In the meantime the great literature produced by Russians, instead of clarifying matters, has intensified the lack of understanding between them and the peoples of the West. It has pictured the Russian Slav as a strange, dreamy, morbid, often half-civilized person with whom the West has few common bonds.

Mr. Eastman adds some touches of his own. He points out that Russians are the least nervous of peoples. Leisurely in habit, they are capable of infinite boredom. A three-hour speech is a short one. Conventions last for six to seven weeks. Three minutes are required for so simple a transaction as buying a stamp at the postoffice, 10 minutes to buy a railroad ticket.

The revolution, of course, has added tremendously to the difficulties of Western understanding. Although Russia is undertaking the greatest governmental experiment in the world, and one that deserves the most careful and unbiased study, it has become the fashion in the West to regard it with stupid hostility. The hard-luck stories of the dispossessed Russian aristocracy have had far more sympathetic currency than any other news from Russia, although the plight of that class is comparatively unimportant compared with the salvation of Russia's masses. Chiefly two classes of persons are giving Russia the attention it merits, our scholars and—strange to say—our business men. Our statesmen lag far behind, and, as for the average person, Russia and Russians present only the vaguest concepts.

Mr. Eastman has undertaken a big task.

MR. WEST'S CONFIRMATION.

The Senate has confirmed the nomination of Roy O. West for Secretary of the Interior by a vote of 54 to 27. The result is, we believe, disappointing to the liberal opinion of the country which looked for a more formidable opposition. The administration victory, if it may so be accounted, may be attributed in part, perhaps, to the mood of peace that has fallen upon Washington as the Coolidge regime hurries to its close. At times, also, that Mr. West has created a favorable personal impression by his general bearing and his attitude of candor when examined by the Senate committee. Perhaps, too, the liberals of the Senate, men like Norris and Walsh, for conspicuous example, have wearied somewhat of the strife.

Notwithstanding the Senate's confirmation, the competency of the objection to Mr. West's selection, namely, his association with the Insull interests, has been acknowledged by the appointee himself by his voluntary proposal to refrain from participating in any cases before the Department in which the Insull interests are involved. That position is sound ethically. Whether it meets the requirements of the office practically is debatable. The Secretary of the Interior sits as a member of the commission that passes upon applications for power site leases. Public properties of large value are administered in those decisions. Is the public interest properly safeguarded when the Secretary of the Interior absents himself from participating in this duty? May not the public properly expect that it will have, so to speak, an alert attorney of its own in such cases in the person of the Secretary of the Interior? Is it good public policy to place a Cabinet portfolio in the hands of a man who feels disqualified for performing an important official duty because of prior personal relationship?

Those questions are, we believe, as pertinent now as before the confirmation of Mr. West's appointment, even though the fourth of March, and a new order, are but 41 days away.

THE OPTIMISTIC COUNT SFORZA.

The controversy over the question Who Won the World War has been raging, with a verbal barrage almost as hot as the shot and shell barrage of the war itself.

Count Carlo Sforza, former Minister of Foreign Affairs for Italy, who has been brought to America for a series of lectures at Wellesley College on the origins of the World War by the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, has formed a conclusion that seems better than any that has come to our knowledge. Count Sforza's opinion is short and to the point. It is that "no one won; everybody lost."

Victors and vanquished have been wallowing in the mire of death and disaster ever since the war. They are not yet out of the mire. The consequences are slowly being readjusted. The people are winning back a little prosperity, but the losses are enormous, and the debts an interminable burden.

It may be said that the United States won in a sense. It came out of the war a creditor Nation and has risen to a peak of industrial production, commercial activity and prosperity. We lost thousands of the flower of young manhood, either killed or wounded or nerve shocked, for which there is no compensation. And we are paying an enormous debt. We have not struck a balance between gains and losses, and probably the latter far exceed the former.

There is another conclusion of Count Sforza which we are not so sure about. The Count says that governments may be silly, but that the peoples are wise. They will no longer tolerate war. The peoples still tolerate large armies and armaments, which lead inevitably to war. They have not yet made their voice heard decisively against war in the councils of the nations, and there is no proof that the war psychology of the mob does not yet prevail under an effective appeal. That the will to peace is strong enough to overcome the clamor for war and the appeal to passion has yet to be demonstrated.

SYLVESTER BALDWIN, GANGSTER.

Sylvester Baldwin has again clashed with the law. This time he is in jail, held without bond, on the charge of murder. Sheriff Lill of St. Louis County says that Baldwin has been identified as the robber who shot Toddie V. Phelps, cashier of the Overland State Bank.

It was a cold-blooded murder, committed for the sheer lust of killing.

The identification may or may not be correct. Baldwin may or may not be guilty. He is entitled to a fair trial.

But this much may be said about Sylvester Baldwin. He was arrested on the charge of holding up a laundry driver on Jan. 3, 1924. He was tried, convicted and sentenced to serve five years in the penitentiary. He appealed to the State Supreme Court. The case was before that court four times when it was finally remanded. Baldwin's attorney was Jones Parker, the present Speaker of the House of Representatives. Parker told the Supreme Court that Baldwin was a "hard-working, industrious young man, who had never been in much trouble." The truth was that at that time, Baldwin had been arrested 69 times in St. Louis, had been convicted twice on robbery and burglary charges and fined in police court on six occasions.

There was no retrial of Baldwin on the holdup charge, the case having been nolle prossed by Circuit Attorney Sidener a day or two before his term expired.

We should like to direct the attention of Speaker Jones Parker to the place and the circumstances in which his former client has been arrested on this charge of murder. Baldwin, with four friends, was taken into custody at the notorious Plantation Inn, 2901 Suburban avenue, Wellston, of which Baldwin is proprietor. It may also interest Speaker Parker to learn that Baldwin is known to the police as a gangster. And it might not be amiss for the Judges of the Supreme Court which, sitting en banc, reversed the verdict of the lower court in the Baldwin laundry holdup, to read again the dissenting opinion of Judge Walker in that action.

Baldwin, let us repeat, should not be convicted on his criminal record for a crime he did not commit. Give him the fair trial which the law guarantees. But in fairness to society Baldwin's career is here sketched, so that no other lawyer whom Baldwin may retain will describe the proprietor of Plantation Inn, ex-convict and gangster, as a "hard-working, industrious young man who had never been in much trouble."

OUT OF THE FOG.

The Year 1929 in English Politics

There is reason to believe in an analogy between the year 1829, when England began to recover from the reaction of the Napoleonic period, and the year 1929, which sees England emerging from its feeble leadership of the last ten years.

From the Manchester Guardian.

WITH the passing of 1928 we may reasonably hope that the period of reaction which is the usual sequel to war is coming to an end. War exhausts energy and cheats idealism; it breeds apathy and a paralyzing sense of disillusion. It confuses issues and creates unreal divisions. It is the great task of transferring labor and finding work for men whose own industries will never again employ them is one that a progressive Government must undertake with boldness. And, be it noted again as a sign that there is real agreement among progressives today, the very proposals for a constructive solution of the unemployment problem made by the Labor party are also made, again with more detail and precision, in the Liberal Yellow Book.

On innumerable platforms, therefore, the public will hear a number of serious proposals for reducing unemployment urged, in substantially the same terms, by both Liberal and Labor advocates. They can scarcely fail to be impressed by the fact of this agreement or to grow restive at a situation in which it is possible and in some cases even probable that a majority vote cast for this policy will gain no Parliamentary representation. Rather than aid in returning a Tory to Westminster, progressives are therefore likely to vote for the Progressive candidate with the best chance of success. But in the present circumstances even a small vote for his rival may give the Tory the seat.

If progressive Liberals and moderate Labor members are now substantially agreed upon their immediate industrial and social program, their agreement upon foreign affairs is not less pronounced. When we accuse the present Government of being "reactionary" in foreign affairs, we are not using a vague term of abuse, but making an explicit accusation. For progress in this generation means, if it means anything, the development of a new system and a new outlook upon foreign affairs.

There is today real determination not to slip back into the international anarchy which came to a climax not to an end in 1914; a real intention to fulfill our pledged word to disarm and to use the organization of the League as a genuine basis for international peace. And at many points during the past two years the Government has shown itself indifferent or hostile to this aspiration. Its refusal to sign the optional clause of ratify the eight-hour convention; its "lukewarm" attitude to disarmament (to use Viscount Cecil's intentional euphemism); all these were signs of its lack of touch with the international outlook of the day. More striking still from this point of view has been the revival in 1928 of an "entente" with France. And this, in spite of the fact that "ententes," as we all know today, are not so much declarations of friendship as admissions of common enmity. The return to the old system of ententes and secret agreements has had, in this particular case, the disastrous result of alienating American sentiment, which it should have been our first duty to conciliate.

The party of progress is united in repudiating this reactionary attitude to international affairs. Both sections agree that this issue of international outlook is of su-

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.

THE soldiers who stand guard 19 hours every day at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier regard their selection as one of the most cherished military honors.

One who visits this hallowed spot in Arlington Cemetery and watches the sentinel pace back and forth, more than likely has thought "He must be tired of that; it must be monotonous."

But to the soldier it is a different story. He is proud of his lot. He gets a tremendous kick in walking these 31 steps to and from the tomb. And if a crowd of visitors were in the habit of sitting on the tomb, shoulders back, chin in, hands on shoulder in precise position, he would back and forth, hardly aware of the strain.

THE guard detail at the Unknown Soldier's tomb is supplied for 45 days at a time from the engineers at Fort Humphreys, the infantry at Fort Washington and the cavalry at Fort Meyer. Eight men are chosen from each of these posts. They are selected in competition for neatness in dress, drill, manners and discipline. Each detail guards the tomb for 15 days, and the sentinel walks up and down in front of the tomb three hours and 20 minutes each day. The remainder of the day he is free.

Aside from the fact that selected visitors were in the habit of sitting on the tomb, eating lunch there and scattering seeds about the grave. Attempts were even made to chip off bits of granite for souvenirs.

The presence of military authorities, of course, makes everyone behave in a dignified manner. No one is permitted to touch the tomb now, and those who make the pilgrimage to Arlington pay their tribute in an atmosphere most impressive.

The presence of this military guard also serves another purpose. The sentinel instinctively feels that he is on duty. The impressive solemnity of the tomb, eating lunch there and scattering seeds about the grave. Attempts were even made to chip off bits of granite for souvenirs.

PEOPLE of all classes daily visit the tomb. The first bus loads are there as soon as the gates of Arlington open at 9 a. m., and they continue to come until the cannon at Fort Meyer booms across the river. While no count is kept, officials estimate that more people come to Arlington each year than to any other point of interest in the national capital.

preme importance. Their opportunity in the coming year. The time to make a vital electoral issue is during the next few months. If this is done, and if a party of being effective, the historian will look back upon 1929 as he looks back upon 1928, as the end of an era of reaction and the beginning of an era of progress.

Exchanging Literatures

FOREIGN Features Press, a New York editorial bureau, has announced the establishment of a Latin-American literature department to serve publishers in an advisory capacity. The new department is prepared to suggest titles for the Latin-American book market, make English-Spanish and Spanish-English translations of literary works, and render expert assistance in the preparation of manuscripts for publication. Genaro Arbalaz, a well-known Latin-American journalist, and Norbert Lyons, a Manila editor of the New York Times, are in charge of the department.

While superficially this new enterprise might appear to be another example of American business initiative, a clever scheme for making more money in the book merchandising game, it may well have an epochal significance. Whether all of us think we like it or not, the United States is obviously engaged in developing a new type and the most powerful one that has ever been known. We first began to move definitely in this direction 30 years ago with the successful termination of a small war, and the final, though unwavering, winning of a great one 20 years later gave us an irresistible momentum. The growing empire is economic and its territory is the Western Hemisphere. Political government is the servant of the real imperial power.

It may be that President-elect Hoover's South American tour will prove, in the long run, less important than is this awakening of the desirability of a cultural interchange between the two continents. To put it baldly, it will be an easier matter to sell shoes to South Americans once they become familiar with our literature, from the best we can produce to the latest wheezes. To be able to feed and think with us will make the better customers and less sensitive to the blandishments of our competitors.

According to Genaro Arbalaz, American publishers thus far have overlooked the enormous possibilities in South America. For some years, we are told, certain publishers have pushed their educational, scientific and technical books into Latin America, but our literature is little known in the southern continent. Most of the books read there are printed in Europe, and decidedly that is not good for American business.

Says Mr. Arbalaz, writing in the Publishers Weekly: "The scanty

TEMPLE ISRAEL VOTES FOR MERGER PLAN

That Congregation to Unite With Shaare Emeth and B'nai El.

The merger of the reform Jewish congregations of Israel Shaare Emeth and B'nai El is finally assured through the vote of ratification by the congregation of Temple Israel last night. The others had approved the plan previously.

One amendment was made by Temple Israel, to reduce the proposed cost of a new edifice. It had been planned to spend about $1,250,000 for a new site in the West End, and a structure, but Temple Israel desired an appreciable decrease of this sum, without setting a figure. Details of the merger plan remain to be worked out by a committee from the three temples, headed by Leo C. Fuller, subject to further approval by the three groups.

The merger of the new congregations has not been chosen. It is expected that it will be organized as a single body before the new building is ready for it. It has been decided who will be the spiritual leader. Rabbi Leon Hirsch, of Temple Israel, has been chosen. Rabbi Louis Witt has resigned from Temple Shaare Emeth, effective Feb. 1, to become a pastor in Dayton, O. Rabbi Julian H. Miller of B'nai El has been conducting joint services for his congregation and Israel at the latter's temple, Kingshighway and Washington boulevard.

This structure and the building of B'nai El, Spring and Flad avenues, and Shaare Emeth, Vandeventer avenue and Lindell boulevard, will be sold.

DR. SULLIVAN TALKS ON GENIUS

The Rev. Dr. William L. Sullivan, former pastor of the Church of the Messiah, now living at Mount Carmel, spoke yesterday in the lecture course of the Junior League on "Testimony of Genius to the Nature of Man." He was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Harry H. Langenberg.

In literature he said, genius occupies itself with the heroic. He proceeded to argue that materialism, if accepted as the ultimate principle of life, could not produce genius, and that the fruits of genius would wither in an atmosphere of materialism.

SURGEON PAYS DEBT TO HIS HOME COUNTY

Returns to North Carolina District to Operate on 205 Children in Ten Days.

By the Associated Press.
SELMIA, N. C., Jan. 22.—A surgeon's debt of gratitude to his home county, dating back to the days of the Civil War, has brought relief to 205 school children of this section who have been suffering from diseased tonsils and adenoids.

Dr. Wade H. Atkinson of Washington was born in Johnston County, 18 months after the end of the war between the States which wiped out his family's fortune. While he was struggling for an education in his teens, the county gave him an appointment to the state university, and he was ready at 25 to begin his medical career in Washington.

Visiting his brother on the old homestead several years ago, he observed the backward condition of many school children of the county, and found that most of them were suffering from diseased tonsils and adenoids. He was inclined to ascribe the backwardness, in large part, to this condition, and offered his services free for 100 tonsil operations on such children.

The school commissioner and the overworked physicians of the county welcomed the aid, and borrowing operating gowns, instruments and some of the necessary anesthetizing materials from Sibley Hospital at Washington, Dr. Atkinson came home to pay his 40-year-old debt of gratitude.

With an ironing board he improvised an operating table in the office of the Selma Superintendent of Schools, F. M. Waters, and with the assistance of Dr. G. C. Massey, county health officer, three local physicians, two trained nurses and several husky volunteers, he set to work.

The volunteers kept the crowds away from the operating table and carried patients to and from the "operating table" in a steady stream. For nine days Dr. Atkinson performed 10 to 18 tonsillectomies daily. He was about ready to quit on the tenth day, the last of his visit, when a bus brought 12 more patients from a nearby school district. They raised his total for that day to 25 operations, and for the entire period, to 205.

The achievement has attracted considerable attention from medical publications, which have displayed particular interest in the methods used to overcome the lack of regular operating tables and equipment and the sterilization of instruments, all of which had to be improvised as the need for them arose.

The children went through the ordeal in good shape and, county officials declare, many of them have shown improvement in their school work.

"So that year," continues the committee report, "we have this Steel Corporation case settled in the Solicitor's office. We find that after the assessments were made the solicitor and one of his assistants resigned, and were admitted to the practice of law before the Bureau, and that soon afterward they filed a proceeding before the Bureau to obtain a refund of taxes which had been assessed in part while they were connected with the Bureau."

"We find that they tried the case before three employees of the Bureau, who were employed by it when these assessments were made, we find that this case was tried in secret, passed upon in secret, and virtually paid in secret. We find that while the solicitor's office reassessed the Steel Corporation in 1917 in the sum of $17,000,000, yet some 10 years afterward a committee from the same office where it was assessed were paying back $15,000,000 of the sum then assessed, and in addition $11,000,000 in interest on it."

It developed during hearings before the Senate Appropriations Committee that this $26,000,000 was not all that was returned to the Steel Corporation from its 1917 taxes. In addition it received a credit of $28,000,000, plus $2,000,000 interest. So that the total refund to the corporation on its 1917 taxes was $57,000,000.

L. H. Parker, the tax expert of the Joint Congressional Committee on Taxation testified that approximately $7,000,000 of the refund was made under a ruling which violated the Treasury Department's own regulations.

It was disclosed, incidentally, that the Steel Corporation had applied for a refund of $50,000,000 plus accrued interest, of the taxes which it paid for 1918. This case is pending.

As has been explained, the difference between refunds and credits is merely one of procedure. When a refund is made, a check for the amount is sent to the taxpayer. When a credit is awarded, the amount is credited to the taxpayer against his current assessment. The loss to the Treasury is the same in either case.

In the case of the $5,500,000 refund to the Reynolds Tobacco Co., Parker found that the company had been permitted to pay a rate less than half the rate under which its smaller competitors were assessed, and gave it as his expert opinion that the company could not have recovered a cent of the amount in a court of law.

The present law provides that the Treasury Department shall inform the joint Congressional Committee of any refunds in excess of $75,000, but makes no such provision with reference to credits. Consequently, the gigantic sums which had been returned to taxpayers in the guise of credits was not known until McKellar called upon the Treasury Department a few days ago for a list of the credits made under Secretary Mellon.

Assistant Secretary Bond held that the department was not permitted to disclose the names of the taxpayers who had received credits, nor the particular amounts credited to them. Furthermore, he said he had no list of credits for the years 1921 and 1922. But he did furnish a list of the total credits in each of the succeeding six years. The amounts were colossal, the total for the six years amounting to more than $1,600,000,000. The totals by years were in round numbers, as follows:

1923	$206,582,000
1924	$25,628,000
1925	$26,155,000
1926	$30,287,000
1927	$62,282,000
1928	$89,194,000

In the last three years, it will be observed, there was a steady decline in amount returned to taxpayers in the form of credits. However, during the eight years of Secretary Mellon's administration, there has been a tremendous increase in the total of cash refunds. For example, in 1921 Congress appropriated $25,628,000 to cover refunds. For the year 1929, the Treasury Department is asking for a total appropriation of $205,000,000 to cover refunds.

Thus the total sum which Secretary Mellon annually is turning back to the taxpayers averages around $400,000,000. The cost of maintaining both the army and navy usually runs around $700,000,000 a year. The fact that these refunds and credits are made by boards and bureaus of the Treasury Department under the cloak of complete secrecy, is emphasized and condemned in the report of the Judiciary Committee.

"Your committee," it states, "is of the opinion that this is not to the best interest of the Government; it is not to the best interest of honest administration. Under such a system the grossest kind of injuries might happen."

The report points out that the McKellar bill does not involve the publicity of income tax returns. It simply provides that open hearings shall be held on claims for credits or refunds in excess of $10,000, and for an annual report to Congress by the Treasury Department of all refunds, credits and abatements in excess of $500.

McKellar's bill is certain to precipitate a bitter fight on the floor of the Senate, senator Cawners (Rep.) of Michigan, the severest Senate critic of the Mellon policy, is preparing for another attack on them. He is known to be in possession of interesting information concerning the treatment received by Mellon's own companies from the Treasury Department in tax matters.

Who are the people this new car will attract?

A NEW CAR is coming. Not a new make of car. But an essentially brand new edition of one of America's best sellers. It is a six. It has bodies by Fisher. It is bringing new luxury, new beauty and new performance to its price field.

That much is fact. But now let's see. Who are the people this great new car will attract?

Most typical Americans of today are progressive. They are tuned in on everything new that is going on. They are not content to stand still. Years ago, they hustled the horsehair sofa off to the attic to make way for newer, more modern furniture.

Today they are demanding more beauty, more luxury and finer performance than ever in their automobiles. Some of them have reached the point of owning two or more cars. Most of them have not. But they're all getting ahead. They all love fine things. These are the people this new car will attract.

The Oakland Motor Car Company has been building the Pontiac Six for this progressive group during the past three years. So it knows a lot about them. And with this knowledge, Oakland has created a new car especially for them—not merely a refinement of an earlier model, but a brand new car from beginning to end.

It brings new standards of style to its price field. It provides the luxury and beauty of entirely new bodies by Fisher. It offers them performance they can tell their friends about. It will enable them to make a long step up the ladder of motor car quality with only a slight increase in investment.

You will appreciate the incomparable value of this car. Watch for the

INTEREST STUDY AWAR
Now is Last Day for Registration for Fellowship.
For the James Harris Memorial Fellowship in Architecture. The value of the scholarship is an award of $1500. Its architectural graduates will study architecture in foreign countries.
It is required that applicants be American citizens of good moral character, and that they shall have at least one year of practical work in the office of a St. Louis architect. They must also be between the ages of 21 and 31 and be graduates of a recognized school of architecture in the United States.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This dissolves it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

ASKS DEMOCRATS TO MAKE FIGHT FOR MAYORALTY

William L. Igoe Declares Party's Chances Are Best Since 1905 When Rolla Wells Was Elected.

Moved by the failure of the Democratic party to obtain as yet a strong candidate for Mayor in the present campaign, and in response to requests, William L. Igoe, a leader of the party, has issued a statement urging immediate agreement on a standard bearer and declaring that the party has a better chance to elect its man than since 1905.

Igoe, who was the party nominee for Mayor in the last election, four years ago, but who will not consent to run again, was defeated by only 3209 votes. The Democrats put a man in the city's chief office for the last time in 1905, when Rolla Wells was re-elected Mayor. Igoe, a former Congressman, was chairman of the Democratic Campaign Committee which turned the city upside down politically last November by helping give Gov. Smith, Democratic presidential nominee, a majority exceeding 10,000 here. He is one of a group of leaders who have been asked to suggest a Democratic mayoralty candidate.

The essence of Igoe's statement was a warning that an effective organization to support the Democratic nominee cannot be created after the primary of March 8, but must be started at once. The election will be on April 2. One Democrat, Sam Ben Payne, has announced his candidacy for Mayor, but he lacks organized support.

On the Republican side, Mayor Miller and former Mayor Kiel, the chief contenders, have strong organizations, and Stephen M. Wagner has announced that he would enter the race, but politicians regard his backing as slight.

Igoe's statement follows:

"Chances Best Since 1905."
"The Democratic party has a better chance to elect a Mayor of St. Louis in April than it has had since 1905."

"I am not a candidate, nor am I interested in any particular individual who is or might be a candidate."

"The primary law is, of course, designed to enable the political parties to choose their candidates, but, unfortunately, the date of the primary is so close to the election that the Democratic candidate is at a disadvantage if organization work in his behalf is postponed until after that date. Three weeks is too short a time to organize effectively against a strong political machine."

"I believe that if, in some way, the party could agree upon or select a candidate at once, and organization work in his behalf could be started immediately, his chances of election would be greatly increased, and this regardless of the outcome of the Republican primary and any bitterness that may result therefrom."

Recalls General Election.

"In the November election the Democratic candidates in St. Louis made a fine showing and a great improvement was noticeable in the organization. This was due in part, it is true, to Gov. Smith's candidacy, but the large registration of voters is still on the books and the Democratic gains were in a very large measure from voters who in former years were not sufficiently interested to vote. I think these voters will support the right Democratic candidate in the April election."

"There is a great opportunity here for the election of a Mayor who will give the city a business administration, and one as free from politics as it is possible to secure."

One Sixth Ward Faction Indorses Miller; Another Backs Kiel.

Mayor Miller's candidacy for re-election was irrefragably last night by the so-called Sixth Ward Republican Organization, meeting at the People's Finance Building, Jefferson avenue and Market street. Mrs. Elizabeth Gamble, Republican Committeewoman from the ward, presided.

Another faction in the ward had indorsed the candidacy of former Mayor Kiel several days ago. This group is headed by Robert Scott, Deputy Clerk of the Circuit Court for Criminal Causes. The electorate of the Sixth Ward is largely Negro.

Riefeling to Seek Re-election From Fifteenth Ward.

Alderman Harry P. Riefeling of the Fifteenth Ward has filed notice of his candidacy for re-election. He is a Republican and a supporter of Mayor Miller. Riefeling introduced for the Mayor the ordinances for construction of the southern rail approach of the Municipal Bridge and defining terms for railroad use of the bridge. He also introduced the bill establishing the municipal dental clinics.

Riefeling is the second candidate to file. Aldermen are to be chosen from the 14 odd-numbered wards and the 14 Republican incumbents all are seeking to retain office. The first to file, yesterday, was Victor W. Lund, a political newcomer, for Alderman from the Thirteenth Ward. There will probably be several candidates from that ward, including Alderman Neff and former Alderman Joseph R. Heckel.

NURSES' ASSOCIATION FIXES FEE FOR APPOINTMENT CALLS

Visits in City to Be Made at $2 First Hour; $2.50 in County.

The inauguration of a new service, that of providing graduate nurses by appointment, which will be self-supporting, was announced yesterday at the annual meeting of the Visiting Nurse Association of St. Louis at the College Club Building, 5428 Delmar boulevard. A fee of $2 will be charged for visits inside the city limits and of $2.50 for visits in St. Louis County. If the visits require more than an hour's time, an extra charge of $1 an hour will be made.
The system will be separate from the regular work of the association, which deals chiefly with charity cases.

All of the officers and directors of the association were re-elected. In addition, these new directors were named: Mrs. Charles L. Allen, Mrs. Robert O. Bonnell, Mrs. Robert C. Day, Mrs. Howard Gambrell, Mrs. Noble McCormack and Mrs. X. P. Willey.

Establishment of a nurses' training course and public health school was recommended. Miss Emilie G. Robson, director of the association's work, reported the nurses made 105,064 visits in the city and county in 1928, which was 6000 more than in 1927. Maternity cases provided 71 per cent of the cases. The association expended $115,607.33 during 1928 and had a cash balance of $966 Jan. 1. Receipts included $59,610.93 from the Community Fund and $2000 from the estate of H. W. Peters.

Mrs. Minnie Langkopf, 7028 Virginia avenue, obtained a divorce from Emil H. Langkopf, a vacuum cleaner salesman, of 3903 Castleman avenue, in Circuit Judge Taylor's court yesterday on grounds of cruelty and general indignities. She received $6000 gross alimony, and custody of their two minor children. Langkopf did not contest. They were married on March 12, 1914, and separated Aug. 18, 1928.

RCA RADIOLA 62—Cabinet model of new RCA Super-Heterodyne with Electro-Dynamic Speaker. A.C. house-current operation. Beautiful cabinet of walnut veneer with maple inlays. $375 (less Radiotrons)

SO amazing is the performance of the Radiola Super-Heterodyne that it gives the complete illusion of a full orchestra in your home.

Nothing equal to this marvelous instrument has ever before been known in the radio art.

Musical critics and concert artists choose the Super-Heterodyne for broadcast reception because of its remarkable tone fidelity and musical range.

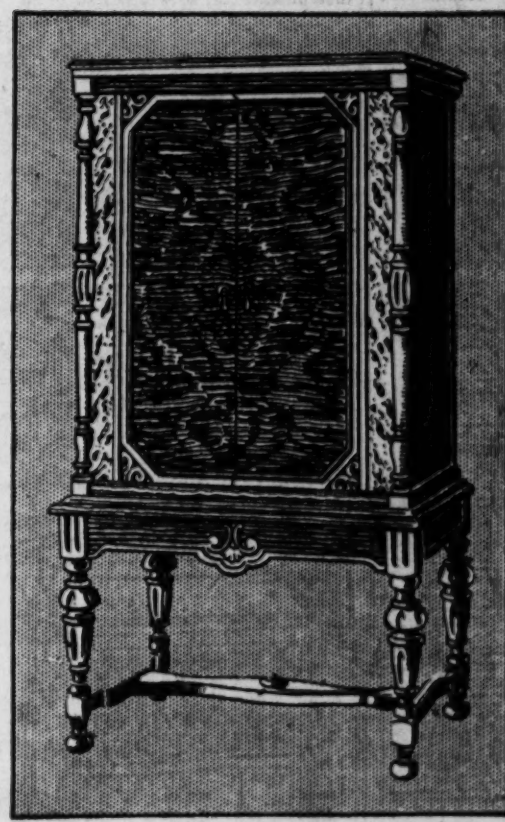

Radio engineers use it in the laboratories and in their homes as a standard with which to measure the performance of other instruments.

The RCA Super-Heterodyne of 1929—with the refinements and improvements of ten years of research—is a much finer receiver than the first models of its type.

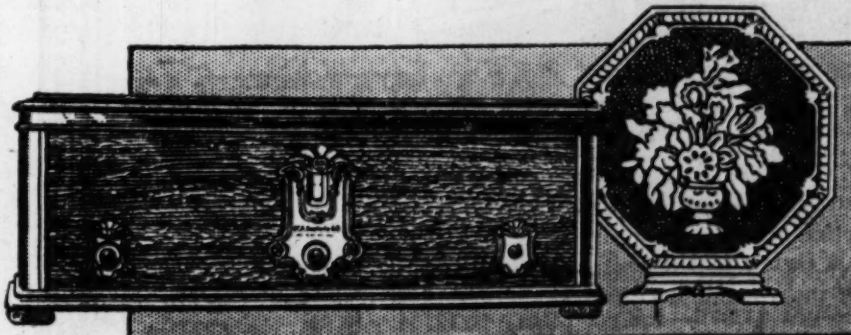

And it can be sold at much lower prices, because larger scale production has reduced the cost of manufacture. The latest models of the Super-Heterodyne cost little more, in fact, than ordinary radio sets of much inferior performance.

It pays to buy a genuine RCA Radiola—and if you want the finest receiver known to the art, then it's the Radiola Super-Heterodyne.

GROVER ALEXANDER SUED FOR DIVORCE

Wife Charges Cardinal Pitcher With Extreme Cruelty—Asks for Alimony.

By the Associated Press.
LINCOLN, Neb., Jan. 22.—Grover Cleveland Alexander, veteran St. Louis Cardinal pitcher, was sued for divorce yesterday by Almie Marie Alexander, who charged "extreme cruelty" and asked for attorney fees and suitable alimony. The Alexanders were married May 31, 1918.

The petition states that Alexander is earning a considerable sum of money, but does not stipulate the amount. Though Mrs. Alexander has made her residence at St. Paul, Neb., the home of her husband, she was permitted, her attorney said, to file the action any place in the state.

Alexander has been in Lincoln on several occasions lately, friends say. Alexander could not be found last night and friends of the pitcher said they did not know whether he was in Lincoln. The Alexanders have regarded St. Paul, Neb., their home during the winter season, but this winter they have been living in Lincoln most of the time.

Mrs. Alexander suffered an attack of influenza shortly after Christmas and Alexander was most solicitous in his attentions during her illness, friends said. Their separation was a surprise to their acquaintances. The Alexanders have no children.

DRY AGENTS FIND A STILL OPERATING IN VACANT HOUSE

When Federal prohibition agents under Chief Deputy Dillon went to a presumably vacant house at 5708 Elward avenue at 5 a. m. today they found a still being operated by a man who said he is Thilto Zerello of 1008 North Eleventh street.

The man was arrested, the still dismantled, and 75 gallons of moonshine and a vat of mash destroyed. The still was set on a concrete base in the basement and extended up through the first floor.

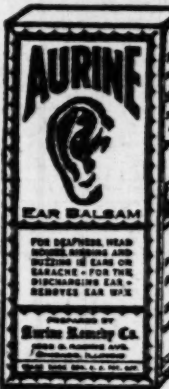

Upon information that alcohol was removed from the premises

each day at about 6 a. m., the agents secreted themselves in the house. When Edna Huggins, a Negro, 3633 Randolph street, arrived in an automobile about an hour later, he was arrested. A charge of transporting liquor in violation of the Volstead act is pending against Huggins in Federal Court.

Nicholas II.
The pamphlet contained, Sum-
said, several excerpts from the book published here by the Viking press. At least, Sumner added, he thought they did. He had not read

"Rasputin," he said. The pamphlets, he insists, are immoral.
Miss Gitter will have to answer
a charge of violating Section 1141
of the penal code.

Sixteen £5 Notes Among Policeman's Cash Traced
to Mrs. Merrick, "Queen of the Night Clubs."

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON,
London Correspondent of the Post Dispatch and New York World.

(Copyright, 1928, by St. Louis Post-Dispatch and New York Times.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—London's biggest police graft trial opened yesterday when the Crown submitted evidence that Police Sergeant Goddard amassed $90,000 on a salary of $30 a week while in charge of the district containing many of the night clubs of the metropolis.

With him in the dock were the famous "Queen of the Night Clubs," Mrs. Kate Merrick, mother-in-law of two peers, and Luigi Ribuffi, an Italian restaurant proprietor, charged with bribing Goddard and with conspiracy.

Mrs. Merrick wept when the prosecutor said bank notes traced to her had been found in God-dard's possession.

The police sergeant, the testimony showed, rented safe deposit boxes in which to keep cash, besides buying a house and automobile. In one of these depositories in a Pall Mall bank detectives found $60,000 in cash.

It was apparent that strong evidence had been gathered.

In return for bribes, Goddard is accused of protecting dives and furnishing reports to his superiors that evidence against them could not be obtained.

Sixteen £5 notes drawn from Mrs.
Merrick's banking account and found in one of Goddard's safes explain the charge against her and also the presence in court of many of her fashionable friends.

It is comparatively easy for the English authorities to discover the hands through which a £5 note passes. Records of persons to whom they are given are kept by the banks. It also is customary,
when one is spent, for the person offering it to write his name and address on the back of the note,
which is blank.

As soon as a note for £5 or more is redeposited in a bank after being in circulation, it is returned to the Treasury to be destroyed and another is issued in its place. By checking the serial numbers of the notes against the recoded names
of persons to whom they are issued and who deposit them, the banks are able to tell the authorities the identity of the first and last holders.

30 DAYS FOR DRUNKEN DRIVER
Herman Haemmerle, Truck Operator Appeals From Workhouse Term Herman Haemmerle, 2563 Benton street, was sentenced to 30 days
in the workhouse by Police Judge Bock yesterday on a charge of driving a truck while intoxicated.
He appealed. Richard Fishback, 3344 Liberty street, promised to refrain from driving for 30 days
rather than serve a 10-day workhouse sentence imposed by Judge
Rosecan on a speeding charge.

Other speeding cases included:
William Klingensmith, 1129 Tudor avenue, East St. Louis, $48 for 48 miles an hour, appealed; and Henry Jacobson, 5585 Waterman avenue,
and Edward J. Walsh, 4349 Westminster place, $40 each by default for 40 miles an hour.

Boy, 13, Indicted for Murder.
By the Associated Press.
SEARCY, Ark., Jan. 22.—A 13-year-old school boy, George Smith, has been indicted on a charge of first-degree murder by the White County grand jury for the fatal shooting of his classmate, Clarence Dodge, 15, last November, the aftermath of a school yard fight. Evidence showed young Smith provoked the fatal quarrel.

Kansas Bank Cashier Arrested.
By the Associated Press.
COUNCIL GROVE, Kan., Jan. 22.—A. L. Owen, cashier of the closed Delavan State Bank of Delavan, Kan., was arrested yesterday on charges of embezzlement and false statement. He waived preliminary hearing, and was bound over to District Court for trial at the next term. Owen was released under $2500 bond.

CAULFIELD ASKS FOR FACTS ABOUT PRISON
Orders Honest Inventory to Learn Just How Big the Deficit Is.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 22.—Appraisal of the property and assets of the State penitentiary on a business basis, throwing out any past inflated inventories and disclosing fully whatever deficit exists, was ordered by Gov. Caulfield in a letter sent to the State Penitentiary Board late yesterday, relative to preparation of the board's biennial report to the Governor and the Legislature.

The Governor directed that all buildings, equipment and stocks of materials used in manufacturing the inventory at their actual present value and not at their book value, or the value at which they were taken over from the former board.

"Now is the time to discover and disclose any deficit that may exist," Caulfield stated in his letter. "If our discoveries require an additional appropriation by the Legislature, it should be asked now."

He told the board to include in its report a statement that it took the property over from the former board at its book value and not at its present value, in order that no false impression might arise concerning the administration of the present board.

Check on Funds Ordered.
The Governor also suggested the board make a complete check of the records concerning transfer of funds of the industrial department of the prison to pay bills of the penitentiary proper, to determine if the capital of the industrial department, which operates the prison factories, has been impaired.

The State Senate investigation in 1927 of the management of the prison by a board headed by Dr. Cortez F. Enloe, close friend and political adviser of former Gov. Baker, disclosed that virtually all of a former surplus of $437,000 in the industrial department had been transferred to the prison proper to pay penitentiary bills. This surplus in reality was the operating capital of the industrial department and the transfer crippled the department.

The Senate investigating committee, in its report to the Senate, severely criticized the Enloe board for mismanagement, favoritism in purchasing, and an "era of extravagance heretofore unknown in State affairs." It recommended ouster of the board, but the members were confirmed by a coalition of administration Republicans and six Democratic senators who bolted a Democratic caucus which had voted to sustain the committee report.

Gov. Baker reorganized the Penitentiary Board in September, 1927, as a belated result of the investigation. A. H. Harrison of Steelville was appointed director, replacing Enloe, and John I. Burnett of Jefferson City was appointed industrial commissioner. The industrial commissioner had been left vacant by Baker after Burnett, who had been appointed early in the administration, had resigned due to the alleged interference by other board members in management of the industrial department.

$500,000 Deficiency.
When the reorganized board took charge in September, 1927, it was confronted with slightly more than $1,000,000 in unpaid bills, which had accumulated in nine months of the biennial period of 1927-1928.

Due chiefly to the efforts of Harrison and Burnett, the operating of the prison was reduced, industrial production increased, and the prison finances improved. The unpaid bills have been cut almost one-half. The board will have to ask the Legislature for a deficiency appropriation of between $550,000 and $600,000 to meet the bills remaining unpaid.

Buildings and equipment of the prison factories have been carried for years at a valuation of approximately $1,100,000, representing the amount of appropriations made by the Legislature for such purposes. Only about $60,000 in depreciation has been charged off, although it is known the depreciation exceeds this amount considerably.

Some of the stocks of material taken over included much of little value that should be charged off, it was said. It is understood valuation of the prison assets on a present value basis will result in a heavy reduction from the inventory value at which the property was taken over by the present board.

The Governor let it be known that he thought this was the proper time for a fresh start. The present Penitentiary Board has desired but has not felt free heretofore to take such a radical revision of the inventories.

Caulfield indicated he would provide the board with appraisal experts of the Public Service Commission, to check the inventory of buildings and equipment.

The terms of members of the present board expire in June. The Governor has not indicated what changes he would make in the personnel of the board, but it is not likely that all of the five members will be reappointed.

A Family of Chicken Thieves.
By the Associated Press.
LAMAR, Mo., Jan. 22.—A father, mother and three sons were found guilty of chicken theft in the Circuit Court here yesterday. The jury's verdict recommending five years' imprisonment for each of the five. Neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. W. O. Irvin, who live near Pittsburg, Kan., identified chickens the Irvins sold in Pittsburg as stolen.

OFFERS TO CASH $26.80 CHECK
East St. Louis Finds Stranger's Draft Is Worthless.
Joseph Biel, 3027 Park avenue, East St. Louis, has asked police to search for a man for whom he cashed a check for $26.80, supposed to be a pay check of the Armature Rewinding Co. of St. Louis, in an East St. Louis grocery Saturday night.

The check, drawn on the Mercantile Trust Co., proved to be worthless, Biel said. He cashed the check, Biel said, after the manager of the grocery had refused to do so.

How Doctors Treat Colds and the Flu

To break up a cold overnight or to cut short an attack of grippe, influenza, sore throat or tonsillitis, physicians and druggists are now recommending Calotabs, the purified and refined calomel compound tablet that gives you the effects of calomel and salts combined, without the unpleasant effects of either.

One or two Calotabs at bedtime with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea nor the slightest interference with your eating, work or pleasure. Next morning your cold has vanished, your system is thoroughly purified and you are feeling fine with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Eat what you please, no danger.

Get a family package, containing full directions, only 35 cents. At any drug store.

THE ROTUNDA
A Wonderland of Oriental Splendor

HERE is romance in every block of stone and every beam of steel in the inspiring $6,000,000 William Fox temple of the motion picture, now completed and ready to open its doors at Grand Avenue and Washington Boulevard.

It is the Romance of Achievement of an American boy whose foresight and ambition have helped build the motion picture industry into one of the great Arts of the world.

It is the Romance of Victory over poverty

EXPLAINS MERITS OF MOBILIZATION PLANSeventh Army Corps Chief of Staff Tells How Men Could Be Trained.

The advantages of the "1928 mobilization plan," under which national defense would be organized in a war emergency, were explained by Col. Tenny Ross, chief of staff of the Seventh Army Corps Area, to members of the 102d Division at a luncheon at the American Annex yesterday.

"Its chief superiority over former plans," said Col. Ross, "is its flexibility. Instead of laying down a rigid set of rules by which the corps areas commanders are to assemble troops and train them, the new plan makes the corps commander king in his own territory. This is in recognition of the varying conditions which obtain in different parts of the country."

Surveys are made by the commanders, he pointed out, so that in time of war they know exactly what facilities are available. Thus, in Omaha, headquarters for the Seventh Corps, a survey has disclosed that by utilizing the vacant space in Omaha's 200 hotels, the time, money and man power necessary to build barracks would be saved. Similarly, the chiefs have determined exactly where connections may be made with existing sanitary facilities and electric power lines. Vacant office buildings and warehouses have been noted with a view to turning them into offices or hospitals.

"During the last war," said Col. Ross, "we built great temporary camps which took time, money and labor to throw together and were a total loss after the war. The next time we will construct camps only when lack of ordinary accommodations make it absolutely necessary." In the next emergency volunteers, National Guardsmen and reserve officers will be ordered to strategic centers in their areas. Here they will be examined and cataloged and assigned to units. Because most volunteers are not skilled in useful military lines, civilians above military age will be hired to act in work requiring specialization in order to speed up training of volunteers until Congress authorizes a selective draft.

In general, the plan is modeled after the French and German systems, but lack of compulsory military service laws renders it less efficient than the European systems.

"Because of this lack," pointed out Col. Ross, "we can never be thoroughly prepared for war, since we have no complete mobilization plan."

30 DAYS FOR MOTORIST
FOR CARELESS DRIVINGTwo Children Testify Against Ben Platt, Who Is Sent to Workhouse.

Ben Platt, who lives at the New Lincoln Hotel, 2226 Olive street, was sentenced to 30 days in the workhouse today by Police Judge Roscan on a charge of careless driving.

Witnesses were two school children, Marie Kehn, 14 years old, and her sister, Bertha, 6, pupils at Rock Springs School, 3744 Sarpy avenue. On Nov. 23, Marie testified, Platt was driving 35 miles an hour when his machine knocked her and her sister down, as they were leaving school. Platt denied the charge, but did not appeal.

Old Homes Were Remade

Magnificent homes of other days have been remade with all modern conveniences in some sections of St. Louis.

Built when labor was cheap, with material sources nearby, these are substantial structures.

Some of them are on the market today at about half what it would cost to build them today.

They are among the Real Estate offers in the Post-Dispatch Real Estate pages—and some may be purchased on terms.

STRIBLING SCORES FOURTH KAYO OF YEAR, STOPPING MONTGOMERY

GEORGIAN ENDS GO IN SECOND; OPPOSES SMITH IN NEXT BOUT

Garden Officials Drop Negotiations For Havana Bout

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., contender for the heavyweight championship, last night knocked out Sully Montgomery, Fort Worth, former Centre College football player, in the second round of their scheduled eight-round battle, Montgomery, who weighed 208 pounds, had an advantage of nearly 20 pounds.

Montgomery took the count in the middle of the second round, after the Georgian had sent him to the floor for a count of nine with a left to the chin. Hardly had the Texan gotten up when Stribling repeated and sent his opponent down for the count.

The Georgian's victory brought him one fight nearer his big test—his battle with Jack Sharkey at Miami, Feb. 27, in the first of a new elimination series that is expected to create a successor to the heavyweight crown abdicated by Gene Tunney. Stribling meets Ralph Smith at New Orleans Friday night in his last bout before the Sharkey contest.

It was Stribling's 113th knock-out and his 243d battle of his fight career.

Since the first of the year Stribling has engaged in four bouts, winning all by knockouts. The average of an contest is two rounds. He started, Jan. 1, kayoing Jack Leary in one round; Jan. 9 he stopped Tommy Stone in two and Jan. 18 Art Maley in three. Then came his tilt with Montgomery.

Fa Stribling, father-manager of the Georgian, said that Stribling would return to Macon after his New Orleans encounter and rest a couple of days before leaving for Miami. He said Young Stribling would leave Macon by airplane Jan. 29.

New Size Obtained for Sharkey-Stribling Bout

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The battle of the Southland between Jack Sharkey and Young Stribling at Miami Beach, Feb. 27, has assumed such proportions that a new and more commodious site was necessary. As a result the Florida Athletic Union has obtained Jack Dempsey wired officials of the Madison Square Garden here to this effect yesterday.

The former heavyweight king, now actively engaged in the promotion of the latest flat spectacle Tex Rickard scheduled before his death, wired that the park would hold an arena seating between 40,000 and 60,000. Dempsey signed a contract with the City of Miami Beach for use of the site rent free. Rickard's Miami Beach Kennel Club, where the fight was to have been held as first planned, would seat less than 20,000. Dempsey said, Flamingo Park, in the center of the city, covers 60 acres.

"The arena can be so designed," Dempsey wired, "that the most remote seats will be closer to the ring than the bulk of the ringside seats at the (Tunney-Dempsey) fight in Chicago."

Fugazy Seeks Dempsey as Promotion Partner

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Jan. 22.—Heretofore in the front rank of rivals of the late Tex Rickard in fight promoting, Humbert Fugazy yesterday announced himself as a candidate for Rickard's niche in the sporting world, and asked Jack Dempsey to be his partner.

Declaring that Dempsey's success as a promoter appeared assured, the New York promoter arrived here to talk over partnership plans. After a conference, Dempsey said he had declined to consider such a project until after his temporary job of putting on the Sharkey-Stribling bout here Feb. 27.

There Goes Ed!

ED LEWIS and Promoter Packs. Who wrestling entertainment backs.

I see one on the outs. Because of Ed's peculiar stand regarding Lutz he is banned from Coliseum bouts.

While Ed puts up a pretty show. On picking guys that he can throw. The Strangler will insist. And so it's not surprising that His presence on the local mat will not be sadly missed.

And furthermore upon the pate Of that resourceful heavyweight The laurel does not sit. But we're a feeling underneath That he'll regain the good old wreath.

Whenever he sees fit.

Kayo.

If K. O. Christner should kayo Sharkey Friday night he would also kayo the Sharkey-Stribling bout at Miami in February.

Not to mention the kayo he would give Jack Dempsey in his initial appearance in the role of promoter.

However, there is little doubt In the inner circles of the cauliflower industry that on the stroke of 10 Friday night the gent from Akron will be a flat tire and decide that it is time to retire.

Still you never can tell. The Big Tire rode rough shod over Knute Hansen and may roll over considerable mileage unless Sharkey jabs the wind out of him.

Wisconsin Stops "Stretch" Murphy And Beats Purdue

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—Purdue's mighty machine has been stalled at last and today Michigan was the undisputed leader in the dizzy Big Ten basketball championship with four victories and no defeats.

Wisconsin, which has dropped its only game in six starts to Michigan, turned the trick last night, upsetting the Boilermakers, 31 to 26, at Lafayette. It was one of the most stunning upsets of the campaign and as a result, Michigan loated into first place and Wisconsin jumped a tie for second place with Purdue.

It was a gentleman from Indiana, Hank Kowalczyk, Fort Wayne, who got most of the glory of the Badger triumph. Kowalczyk, a six-foot six-inch forward, stopped Purdue's scoring fire, "Stretch" Murphy, all-Witry, ex-Chicago, 32 to 26. The Boilermaker defense time and again for victory. The Boilermakers fought a hard fight and might have come through but they missed 10 free throws in 15 attempts, while the Badgers snared 13 out of 15 chances.

Tenpoen at center and Foster at forward were on the receiving end of most of Wisconsin's short passes and together they looped the basket for 19 points. Kowalczyk scored one field goal and two free throws, while the best Murphy could do was to duplicate it. Previously, Murphy had averaged better than 15 points a game.

Indiana got some revenge for its three defeats by upsetting Minnesota, 41 to 21, at Bloomington in the only other Big Ten game last night.

28 National League Recruits Hit .300 Or Better in 1928

By Herman Wecke.

Twenty-eight recruits, who batted for better than .500 averages in the minors during the 1928 campaign, will be given tryouts by the eight clubs in the National League next spring. In addition, there are 13 twirlers, who won more than 60 per cent of their contests. Which indicates that the scouts did a pretty fair job of combing the country last season. New athletes come from class AA circuits and from class D.

New players who will strive for places with the champion Cardinals rank well with those obtained by other teams. Of course, Billy Southworth, who will serve as manager for 1929, cannot be classed as a rookie. Southworth has had plenty of experience. Still he was the leading batter among the new players who were snared by the local National League club. He swatted .361. Charley Gelbert, already regarded as the regular shortstop, hit .340. Fred Haney swatted .334. Selph clubbed .312. D. Watkins, an outfielder, clubbed .306 for the Houston (Texas) (1929) club.

Among the pitchers, Herman Bell, back from Rochester, ranked fourth in the list of newcomers. He won 21 games and lost eight for a winning percentage of .724. Bill Hallahan, the southpaw, who was at Houston, captured 23 battles, while dropping 12, a percentage of .657, while Harold Elliott from Waco had a 16-13 mark.

Reds, needing batting strength, and needing it badly, have brought up seven new men, among them Leo Dixon, a catcher, who last spring was sent to the International League. Dixon, formerly with the Browns, hit .265. Shelli, who swatted .265 to lead the Nebraska State League, was the heaviest hitter of the lot. Crabtree swatted .353; Swanson, .346; Shaner, .330, and Walter Lutzke, .305. Wolfer, an infielder from Rock Island, finished with .273.

Although the Pirates appear pretty well fortified, the club has brought up Stronger, an infielder, and a 367 hitter with Wichita last season; Frey, an outfielder, who swatted .329 with the same club. Two others, Jones and Windle, finished with .308 marks.

The best of the lot for the Cubs appears to be Taylor, a third sacker, who has been up several times before and who hit .374 with the Memphis club.

Kaufmann an Outfielder.

John McGraw of the Giants expects most of Tony Kaufmann, reformed pitcher, who batted .402 for Rochester in 1928; and Veltman, an outfielder from Springfield of the Three Eye circuit.

Among the recruits obtained by the Braves are three catchers, with Leggett, last year in the International League, hitting to an average of .346.

Among the new pitchers, the Records of recruits who will report to American League spring training camps, will be treated in an article in the Post-Dispatch tomorrow.

Crabtree swatted .353; Swanson, .346; Shaner, .330, and Walter Lutzke, .305. Wolfer, an infielder from Rock Island, finished with .273.

Although the Pirates appear pretty well fortified, the club has brought up Stronger, an infielder, and a 367 hitter with Wichita last season; Frey, an outfielder, who swatted .329 with the same club. Two others, Jones and Windle, finished with .308 marks.

The best of the lot for the Cubs appears to be Taylor, a third sacker, who has been up several times before and who hit .374 with the Memphis club.

Kaufmann an Outfielder.

John McGraw of the Giants expects most of Tony Kaufmann, reformed pitcher, who batted .402 for Rochester in 1928; and Veltman, an outfielder from Springfield of the Three Eye circuit.

Among the recruits obtained by the Braves are three catchers, with Leggett, last year in the International League, hitting to an average of .346.

Holding grimly to the one point which was his from last place in the American Hockey Association, the St. Louis Flyers tackle the Minneapolis Millers tonight in the final of a two-game series at the Winter Garden. The Flyers lost last night, 5 to 0.

Although in the last 11 games the Flyers have lost nine, won one and tied one, last night the first place in the American Hockey Association, the St. Louis Flyers tackle the Minneapolis Millers tonight in the final of a two-game series at the Winter Garden. The Flyers lost last night, 5 to 0.

Minneapolis played a remarkable game. Their offense was fast and well co-ordinated, while their defense was impenetrable. Winkler, former Boston Bruin goalie, who guarded the Millers' net, did so well that he did not even appear to be working hard.

The game was very cleanly played, as attested by the fact that only two penalties were assessed. Breen drawing a two-minute rest in the third period for an illegal check, and Benson being banished for tripping in the third period.

Miller Star Is Injured.

Ernie Anderson, who played a fine game for Minneapolis, suffered a broken nose in the first few seconds of play when he was struck accidentally by a hockey stick during a scrimmage.

Garrett was the scoring star for Minneapolis, counting three of the five tallies.

Ernie Anderson started the scoring for Minneapolis less than 10 minutes after the opening puck, when he picked up the opening puck in a scrimmage in front of the St. Louis net and scooped it into the goal.

Garrett scored his first goal on a pass from Benson after 13 minutes of the second period had elapsed and scored another on a pass from Gordon 15 minutes after the start of the final session.

Crawford scored the Millers' fourth goal at the 16-minute mark when his pass struck Chief Boileau and bounced into the St. Louis net and Garrett counted his third and final marker unassisted when there were but 30 seconds of the game remaining.

Breen Checks Rallies.

St. Louis had plenty of fight in the first period but they could not get their passing game working and on one or two occasions when they had fine chances to score the shooter missed the Minneapolis net entirely. Breen used his huge bulk to good effect in this period and checked several Miller rushes.

In the second session the Flyers also missed several good opportunities to count. Harry Cameron shooting wildly twice when nobody but the goaltender was in front of him.

But the Flyers' game went all to pieces in the third period and after the Millers' goal they tried to keep, apparently trying to score or to keep Minneapolis from scoring some more, but they were unsuccessful in both endeavors.

Fewer than 2000 persons attended.

CHICAGO'S NEW STADIUM AFTER CENTRAL A. U. BASKET TOURNAMENT

CHICAGO, Jan. 22.—The Chicago Stadium has made a bid for the Central Amateur Athletic Union basketball championship tournament, which will be played March 12 and 13. The stadium, which will seat 25,000, will be completed by March 1.

The C. A. A. U. district covers Illinois, Wisconsin and Minnesota. More than 200 teams are expected to compete.

BEARS' FENCERS MEET ILLINI TEAM ON FEB. 2

The Washington University fencing squad has started intensive practice for its first intercollegiate meet, scheduled Feb. 2, when the local team goes to Urbana, Ill., to meet the University of Illinois squad. Washington U. a member of the Mississippi Valley Fencers' Association, is seeking matches with Notre Dame, Chicago and Northwestern teams.

Peck Defeats Ruth

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., Jan. 22.—Joe (Kid) Peck, 122, of Kansas City, won a decision over Babe Ruth, 124, of Louisville, in a 10-round bout here last night. Peck, who substituted for Jimmy Watts of Atlanta, knocked Ruth to the canvas three times in the tenth.

WILLIAM MULDOON 'Real Iron Man'

Life Story of the 83-year-old Athlete

Neighbors Were So Opposed to Muldoon's Presence at Purchase They Even Made Him Pay for Poles to Get a Telephone.

By Ed Van Every.

Of the New York Evening World Staff.

CHAPTER XXXV.

FALL at Olympia. The place is really at its fairest, particularly in the early days of autumn. The greens of the foliage are heightened with dashes of russets and browns and reds. The afternoon walk is now something to look forward to with much pleasure. The tramp over the countryside is most exhilarating and your eyes note new and unaccustomed beauties as nature is preparing to doff its summer day raiment.

Years ago, around the middle nineties, when he had first discovered the spot where he eventually built the place was noted through the country. Then he was accustomed to take his patients out from his old place at White Plains and ride out to Purchase, and they would mount Olympian Rock and enjoy the grand view that it afforded. "You could see quite plainly at times the spires of New York, and in the evening the lights of Oyster Bay and the towns across the Sound would seem within really close proximity."

Muldoon had been enamored with its possibilities as a site for his institute from the first day he saw it. Through a New York real estate dealer he had negotiated its purchase after long months of sojourn. He would never have been able to make the purchase direct at that time, because of opposition of the old-fashioned folk who had settled thereabouts.

Once they discovered it was a trainer of prize fighters who had acquired the property they made things unpleasant for the new owner in various ways.

Winning Over Neighbors.

WHEN Muldoon desired to run a telephone connection to Olympia from White Plains his application went against a stone wall. The telephone company would not secure a permit for the placing of poles. In this emergency John Schultz, the Battling Baker Boy, who was now the head of a famous bread corporation, gave Muldoon permission to run his phone line direct to his estate in the vicinity. So the connection was finally made, but Muldoon had to pay for the required poles at a cost of $12 per pole.

The first breaking of the ice on the part of the natives in their feelings toward Muldoon came when he went out of his way to do a service for one of the ring leaders of those against him. Muldoon heard that the wife of this man had been taken suddenly ill and dropped in to learn if he could be of any service. He found there was need to get in immediate touch with a doctor four miles away. So Muldoon took the neighbor with him to his office and placed the phone at the man's disposal. The conversation, however, was a puzzle to the farmer, and Muldoon made the call.

And so as the news got about of how neighborly this trainer of prizefighters and champion athlete had shown himself, the residents began gradually to think better of him, and the telephone as well. By the time the newspapers began to carry front page stories of how the President of the country, Theodore Roosevelt, had sent Secretary of State Elihu Root to Mr. Muldoon for high in the estimation of his neighbors.

Of the intimate details concerning the experience of any of his guests, famous or otherwise Mr. Muldoon's lips are sealed. Many noted personages have been under Muldoon's care without the world at large ever knowing about it.

Elihu Root a Patient.

IT is not a secret that Elihu Root was rushed to Muldoon's at Roosevelt's behest, on Aug. 12, 1907, following the collapse of the Secretary of State during a momentous conference at Sagamore Hill, the President's Oyster Bay estate. Root was bordering on a mental and physical break when he was taken in hand by Muldoon.

Root, it is believed, had little to say about the visit to the Muldoon institute. Roosevelt's insistence was so determined that it was practically a command. It is known that Roosevelt and Muldoon had been friends of long standing, and the former had great respect for the ex-wrestling champion's ideas on physical hygiene. At one time a Washington rumor had it that Roosevelt wanted Congress to create a department of physical culture for the benefit of keeping fit overworked Government officials, in which Muldoon was to be the head. Nothing ever came of the plan.

How Root Was Treated.

STORIES of the harsh treatment that Root was subjected to by Muldoon are untrue. For one thing, Root's health was too badly shattered for vigorous handling. Moreover, Root was under Muldoon's care more than once, and a son of his also took the treatment. Secretary Root was forced to leave his private secretary at the door when he entered Muldoon's and was not permitted to transact any of his affairs for several days, to see any of his correspondence, or to see any of his friends or subordinates.

The newspapers of the time related that Root was bullied by Muldoon in annoying fashion, that he came in for caustic treatment in the gym and dining room. From personal experience I know that meal time at Muldoon's usually finds Muldoon in most genial mood toward his guests. He sits at a table in the middle of the dining room and watches with an observing eye to see that you eat what he thinks is best for you. The food is always plentiful and excellent, and quite often he can be caught into talking about some of his experiences.

One of his best-liked stories seemed to have been the one that has to do with Muldoon's days on the police force.

Muldoon was on post near Varick street in the late seventies, when people rushed up to him to tell him murder was being done on the block. Muldoon hurried to the scene and leaped up several flights of stairs from whence screams could be heard. He broke in the door of the room where the noises came and found a Negro on the floor in a welter of blood, and who had apparently been fatally stabbed. He leaned over the injured woman and inquired: "Can you tell me who has done this?"

"Yes, sah," was the faint answer. "A friend of mine."

Jones Signs to Coach at U. S. C. For Five Years

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Jan. 22.—Coach Howard Jones has signed a five-year contract to coach football at the University of Southern California, which will keep him in charge of Trojan gridiron activities through the 1933 season. The university broke its precedent in that no previous coaching contract has been in force for longer periods than three years.

Jones' new contract calls for a salary of $15,000 annually, an increase of $2000 over the salary set when he came here from Duke University in 1925. In making the new contract the board of trustees expressed appreciation of Coach Jones' work in developing men of "high sportsmanship and exceptional character."

HOPPE LEADS BY 24 POINTS IN LAYTON MATCH

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—Wm. Hoppe, former balking king, away to a 24 point lead in his special 400 point three-cushion match by defeating the titleholder, Layton, in each of the opening three days.

It was the first meeting between the two three-cushion experts. Layton won the title in Chicago and there was a big crowd in the exhibition hall when they came to the table. Layton was a favorite before the match started but it was even money and his pick on the outcome of the first ball.

Although the same score marked the two balls, Hoppe's play was more spectacular than that of his rival. The afternoon contest was a high run of eight and two of five in the eighth while Layton's best effort was him four runs of three.

Nurmi's Case to Be Investigated

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—The Amateur Athletic Union has postponed until tomorrow its investigation into charges brought in connection with Paavo Nurmi's scheduled appearance at the First Memorial games in Boston next Saturday night.

The investigation was ordered after Jack Farra, secretary of the committee in charge of the Nurmi case, was Saturday declared to have been "influenced" to change his entry from the Moscow meet to the Prout games.

The A. A. U. plans to question Nurmi in an effort to uncover all angles of the situation and learn, if possible, whether any undue influence or financial inducement were brought into play. Harra has asserted that Nurmi was given a virtual "order" to compete in the Prout games rather than in New York.

From personal experience I know that meal time at Muldoon's usually finds Muldoon in most genial mood toward his guests. He sits at a table in the middle of the dining room and watches with an observing eye to see that you eat what he thinks is best for you. Basket Coach Tells How To Develop Long Pass

OF Washington U. Coaching Staff. 36—DEVELOPMENT OF LONG PASS SYSTEM.

By C. O. Benson, Herewith is the thirty-sixth of a series of instructive articles on basketball, written for the Post-Dispatch by C. O. Benson, assistant coach of Washington University. Others will follow.

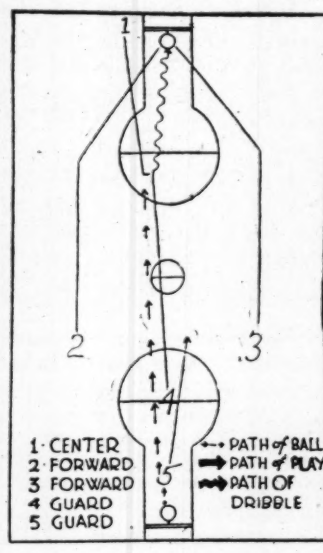

To build this system requires time, but the sequence of practice should run as follows:

First step: The passing, either hook or shoulder, of the back guard to the center. It should be a high pass, causing the center to go into the air after it. The pass should not be a lob, but on a line. The center should then use a jump stop or forward pivot, then rebound his shot, or dribble into the basket.

Second step: The floor guard should be added and he also practices the long pass, but he should practice especially going down the floor full speed and working with the center. This gives the center a chance to tip or pass to the floor guard, who may dribble or shoot. The floor guard operates up to the center of the floor. Later on, add a defensive man on the center.

Third step: The two forwards are added to the above drills, giving the center the complete possibilities of his position. As the attack improves, add defensive players.

Fourth step: This requires much drill. The second team put in the offensive position with the first team in the defensive rebounding position. The coach, or anyone throwing the ball against the backboard, the team rebounding it. The first team

ST. LOUIS U. AND ST. VIATOR FIVE PLAY TONIGHT

ST. LOUIS UNIVERSITY will attempt to gain its eighth basketball victory of the season in a game with St. Viator of Bourbonnais, Ill., at the St. Louis University gymnasium tonight. Starting time is 8:30 o'clock.

Comparative scores indicate that St. Viator will offer strong opposition. The visitors defeated Illinois Wesleyan which lost to North Dakota by a margin of two points. North Dakota scored the Billkens, 37 to 36. In a game at Alton last night, St. Viator won a 32-29 victory over Shurtleff College.

St. Viator is one of the leaders of the Little 19 Conference, and Eard, its star forward, leads that association in individual scoring with a total of 60 points for six games.

St. Viator will play Concordia at the St. Louis University gymnasium tomorrow night. The St. Viator games will furnish an opportunity for comparison of Concordia and the Billkens. The two local quintets are scheduled to meet in the first of a two-game series on Feb. 2.

The usual St. Louis starting lineup will open tonight's game, according to Coach Mike Nyikos. Strong and Oldfield will play the forwards. Drury will play center and Hunt and Joyce will handle the guard positions.

The probable lineups: ST. LOUIS U. ST. VIATOR'S Strong (C).....F.....Evard Oldfield.....F.....Romary Drury.....C.....O'Malley Joyce.....G.....Delaney (C) Hunt.....G.....Clother

Central Meets Webster Quint In Game Tonight

Three nonleague high school basketball games are on the calendar tonight, scheduling Central at Webster, Ferguson at Chamblade and Normandy at the Missouri Military Academy. Tomorrow, Western Military Academy and Country Day will battle for the cellar position in the Preparatory League on the Country Day floor.

Central and Webster appear evenly matched. Ferguson, Chamblade and Normandy are in the cellar. In its game away from home, Normandy will have to extend its win to win from the Mexico (Mo.) five, since Missouri Military boasts a quint composed of veterans, with Slaughter and Baird, forwards; Sherman, center, and Kirsch and Kessner, guards.

Chamblade is favored to win from Ferguson, since Chamblade twice defeated Normandy, a team that nosed out Ferguson, 15 to 12. The Preparatory League contest between Country Day and Western will be an intense one, as both schools are practically eliminated from the title race.

AUGUST B. HAUSER, ASSAYER, LEFT AN ESTATE OF $65,000

Half Interest in Firm Left to Brother and Remainder of Property to Widow.

The will of August B. Hauser, president of Hauser, Miller & Co., refiners and assayers of precious metals, was filed in Probate Court at Clayton today, disposing of an estate estimated at $65,000. Hauser, who was 44 years old and lived in Webster Groves, died Jan. 14.

Hauser's half interest in the refining firm is left to his brother, Joseph J. Hauser, the other partner, provided the brother pays the proceeds of a $10,000 life insurance policy naming the firm as beneficiary into the estate. The remainder of the estate is left to the widow, Maude A. Hauser, after charitable bequests of $1000 each to the Shriners' Hospital for Crippled Children and Mount Moriah Masonic Lodge No. 40.

Hauser lodged in the metal refining business 20 years ago with a capital of $200. Charles Miller sold his interest in the firm to Joseph Hauser six years ago. The company is located at 115 North Eleventh street.

PLEASANT RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

Shoulders droop under weight of years. Young yet beauty has fled. Cheeks are sallow and drawn. Unslightly pimples. Keep your system clean and you keep the beauty of youth. Its energy, its irresistible charm. Then life is not a failure.

Clogged bowels and inactive liver cause poisons to seep through the system. Health vanishes and with it beauty and energy. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets will save you from this dark hour. For 30 years they have been prescribed in place of calomel to men and women seeking health and freedom from constipation. They act easily and smoothly. No dangerous griping. Take nightly before retiring. Results will amaze you.

Thousands of men and women would never be without Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil. Know them by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

WOMANLESS PLAY PRESENTED

London Critics Like "Journeys End," by Former Chicagoan.

LONDON, Jan. 22.—"Journeys End," a play written by Maurice Browne, formerly of Chicago, was well received at its premiere last night and was hailed by dramatic critics today as an achievement. The drama has a war theme but contains no love interest and there is no woman in it.

There are three acts, but only one scene—a dugout at the St. Quentin front. Critics agreed that the atmosphere was real and the fact that the conversation was real. The play was written by Maurice Browne, formerly of Chicago, was well received at its premiere last night and was hailed by dramatic critics today as an achievement.

Takes Glycerin Mixture Gas A Gone

"As soon as I ate, I was in misery. To my surprise, Adierka ended stomach gas entirely. I eat and enjoy anything I want now!"—T. M. Schlabaugh.

The simple mixture of glycerin, buckthorn bark, etc. (known as Adierka), has a most surprising DOUBLED action. It acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel (most medicines act on lower bowel only) and removes foul matter that poisoned the system for months. It clears GAS and sourness from the stomach and brings INSTANT relief from stomach trouble. And, in addition, Adierka removes metabolic poisons which cause neuritis and rheumatism.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adierka checks the growth of intestinal bacteria." Dr. J. Weaver: "In my 50 years' practice, I have found nothing to equal Adierka." "After using Adierka, I feel better than for 20 years. Awful impurities were eliminated."

It will surprise you the great amount of poisons Adierka brings out of your system. In chronic constipation, GAS, sour stomach and sick headache, just ONE spoonful of Adierka brings wonderful relief. At leading druggists. Sold in St. Louis by Wolff-Wilson Drug Stores. Send for FREE checkbook. ADIERKA DEPT. CK96, St. Paul, Minn.

TWO NOW ACCUSED OF BANKER'S MURDER

William O'Hara Charged With Sylvester Baldwin With Overland Killing.

Investigation of the murder of Todd V. Phelps, cashier of the Overland State Bank, who was shot in the back, without provocation, by one of four men who obtained $11,000 in a hold-up Friday, is proceeding with first-degree murder warrants issued against two men.

The second warrant was issued yesterday against William O'Hara, 39 years old, who was arrested at his home, 4652 Delmar boulevard. Previously, a warrant had been sworn out against Sylvester Baldwin, ex-convict, proprietor of the Plantation Inn of Wellston. Both men deny the charge.

William Geisendorf, 1115 Aubert avenue, whose automobile was used in the holdup and later abandoned at Ladue and Denny roads, told police that O'Hara, employed by him as a service car driver, had the only known key to a special ignition and transmission lock with which the car was equipped. The key was in the car when it was recovered. Geisendorf had reported the auto stolen from the 4200 block of Delmar boulevard.

However, O'Hara said a former employee of Geisendorf had a duplicate key. Police have been unable to find the man he named.

Jimmy Michaels, Cuckoo Gang leader, arrested for investigation yesterday, was later released when witnesses to the murder failed to identify him.

J. H. CALDWELL OF ST. LOUIS IS TARIFF HEARING WITNESS

Protests Any Revision of Duty on Blackstrap Molasses; Cites Low U. S. Production.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Having heard a wealth of argument for proposed changes in the sugar tariff the House Ways and Means Committee turned to sugar by-products today and heard first a protest against any revision of the duty on blackstrap molasses.

The protest came from J. H. Caldwell, vice president of the Ralston Purina Mills, St. Louis, who said that of 10,000,000 tons of feed produced by the mixed feed industry 6,000,000 tons contained blackstrap molasses and that the United States produced less than one-twelfth of the molasses required for such feed.

In case, he said, would affect other farmers, because of keen competition and would restrict the growing of alfalfa and alfalfa meal.

Caldwell said that blackstrap was not a substitute for corn as cattle feed and that its use actually increases the consumption of corn.

Representative Chindblom (Rep., Illinois), dove' ped on cross-examination that one class of farmers, the cattlemen, wanted a low duty on blackstrap and would be growers desired a higher tariff.

Snaps Out of Cold
In Record Time!
Did you ever hear of a five-hour remedy for colds? There is one, and it really does bring you out of it completely. Even if it's gripe, this method works, only takes longer.

It's a simple compound the druggist

it surely has the "authority!"
Plenty of people with a bad cold
in the morning have been rid of it
by night; and the secret is Pape's Cold Compound. You'll think it just luck the first time, but it always goes to the spot. Druggists have it for 35c.

Expenditure of approximately $14,000,000 for new generating equipment and plant extensions in the St. Louis district will be made this year by the Union Electric Light & Power Co., it was announced today.
This item was included in a budget of $76,894,000 for new construction approved yesterday in New York by the directors of the North American Co., of which Union
Electric is a subsidiary.
The total expenditure will be about $2,000,000 more than was made for improvements by the company last year. According to Louis J. Egan, president, the program is necessary to provide for the expansion of the company's business.
Improvements here will include installation of a new 75,000-kilowatt generator at the Cahokia plant and removal of a 35,000-kilowatt unit from that plant to Venice, Ill., thus materially increasing the current supply available in the district. These two improvements, together with raising the height of levees at the Cahokia plant, will call for an expenditure of $2,750,000.
It is planned to lay six additional transmission cables from the Cahokia plant under the Mississippi River at a cost of $100,000.
About $200,000 will go for construction of new transmission lines
from the Kookuk dam into the district supplied with current by Union
Electric, which extends from Burlington, Ia., to southern Missouri.
The company will complete a new substation at Fourteenth street and Clark avenue. This plant will serve the area in the vicinity of the Municipal Plaza.
Other improvements will include
new transmission lines in East St.
Louis, new poles, cables, transformers, meters and other equipment throughout the territory, and extension and replacement of gas mains in St. Louis County, where the St. Louis County Gas
Co. operates as a subsidiary of Union Electric.
Expenditures in the East Side
district will total about $5,000,000.
Out of the remainder, $60,000 will go for the St. Louis County Gas Co., $300,000 for the properties upper the Mississippi River, and the balance will be spent in St. Louis.
The budget approved by the North American Co. included a 30-000-kilowatt addition to the Benning plant of the Potomac Electric

NO BOY SCOUT EVER HURT ON TRAFFIC DUTY, SAYS EXECUTIVE
National Officer of Organization
Answers Objection of Board of Education Member.
No Boy Scout ever has been killed or seriously injured as the result of traffic duty to the knowledge of the national organization.
James E. West, chief scout executive, said in a letter to Earle W.
Beckman, local executive, following publication of an objection by Henry E. Schroeder, a member of the Board of Education, that traffic direction near schools by Boy Scouts was dangerous.
Records of the organization are unusually complete, West said, and there is no report of any member of safety patrols in Eastern cities, or elsewhere, being injured by drunken drivers.

THE WAY —OF— A WOMAN

—By—
Marguerite Mooers Marshall

OLD-FASHIONED WOMAN

ALWAYS we have wondered why men apparently worshiped her. As a matter of fact, she was not a woman, but a thing, a thing of the Old-Fashioned Female fingers in the depths of the inscrutable male heart, like dried rose-leaves in a Canton jar. Now we know.

For we have seen her resurrection in the flesh, we have gazed upon her incarnation—her double incarnation as angel and as devil—smiling, smiling, seducing, seducing, bridling to break the alternative sequence with the part that perhaps expresses the Old-Fashioned Woman best of all. Who brides, nowadays, or even knows the meaning of the word? The Old-Fashioned Woman starts—she moves—she seems to feel the thrill of life along her keel—and a much-beruffled, well-corseted keel it is—over the stage of Christy Morley's Old Rialto and his in Hoboken, where he and his friends are reviving that priceless relic of the early-Presbyterian era, "After Dark, or, The Maid, Wife, Nor Widow."

Here she have the girl that grand-ma-used-to-make in all her prime perfection, and here, too, you have the terrible siren of the twenties and thirties, the sinful stilette (in cotton stockings) of the burlesque and music hall. It was while watching this perfect dualism that the charm of the Old-Fashioned Woman was revealed to us—the charm of contrast.

HIS charm, we are convinced, was her substitute for IT. When she was good she was very, very good, when she was bad she was horrid—and fickle man could swing like a happy pendulum between the two extremes. Whenever he was tired of being sustained and soothed by an unfaltering trust he could leave the blameless angel-idiot, beside his hearth and his himself to a den of iniquity.

There he could sport with Amariyllis in the shade or with the tangles in Neera's hair—Amariyllis probably being a Bold Huzzay in spangled, skin-tight green trunks with a butterfly coily applied to her bare shoulder; while Neera, a heavyweight in short-skirted white satin, red cotton stockings wrinkling over her visible (actually) knees and one yellow satin garter rampant, might be smoking a cigarette with an abandon which the modern woman can hardly summon to the breaking of the Seventh Commandment.

Such sinful damself adorns what the Younger Generation thinks is the night club scene of "After Dark," but—judging from the joyous giggles of the section of the Y. G. parked in orchestra chairs around us—never did their undecoded eyes behold such zestful iniquity. Never did ours, for that matter. And we realized what a kick-in-the-Y. G.'s favorite phrase—the Old-Fashioned Man must have got out of both virtue and vice, in those days when they were so, so different!

OR contemplate Eliza, "neither maid, wife, nor widow"—blameless Eliza with the Queen Alexandra haircut, the withering glide of any other well-wed puppet and the perfectly elegant disposition of the Old-Fashioned Woman as she loves and laments and registers the virtue that may be betrayed but never hurt all over the Rialto boards! Gosh, no man of today ever finds anything as good as Eliza! When her husband wants to marry another girl, she obligingly does a nose-dive off the Barclay Street ferry dock. Not even Mrs. Leigh-Manuel of Sayville, L. I., has touched such heights of altruism, although it has occurred to us that she may be Eliza's spiritual descendant. And that exquisite blend of antiquity, sung between the acts of "After Dark," might have been written to fit the Leigh-Manuel case. Peruse three of its practically do-thee lines: "Take back the heart that thou gavest."

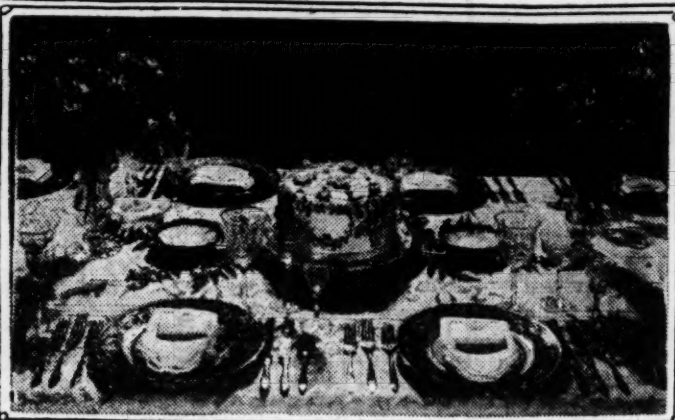

What is my anguish to thee?
Take back the freedom thou cravest—

Here, then, is womankind in the act of the Great Divide between goodness and badness—and this perfect antithesis must have had the supreme "sex appeal." It was well suited to the natural density of the man—he knew where he was at. When a lady showed her slims and smoked a cigarette, that settled it—she was a Wicked Woman. When, on the contrary, she covered herself up with garlands and shimmered and blushed and bridled and allowed him to kiss her hand—oh, yes, and was ready to give Her Life for him—then she was a Woman to Worship.

She was, in neither case, of course, a human woman. Man did not mind, so long as he had her as conveniently classified as a good catalog; in that inhuman epoch which our wittiest aunt has christened as "Bustles, Bosoms and Bangs." Modern times began when women went human, all too human, with almost all women, in 1921, dressing, talking, behaving like No angels. No devils. Just WOMEN who believe in making the best of both worlds, for whom life is so varied and interesting and delightful that they have learned with sheer incredulity to turn their half-heard maundering and murmuring about that quite im-

Tales That Tables Tell

By Alma Zaiss

AFTER the wedding—an exquisitely appointed table as a prophecy of success and happiness to follow. Whether the service be for a wedding breakfast or an afternoon reception makes little difference in the tone of the setting, which will naturally express as much luxury and fineness as the home can provide.

A cloth of fine snow-white linen, with lovers' knot motif in filet, and crystal and china heavily incrustured with gold, make up the major appointments of the table illustrated, which is arranged for a formal wedding breakfast or luncheon.

For the afternoon wedding reception an equally beautiful service could be planned, with the table arranged as for afternoon tea—with the addition, of course, of a handsome wedding cake and ice cream.

At one end of the table would be the full tea set upon a tray (and lucky the bride who owns lovely sterling pieces). As a centerpiece, the cake with garlands in faint pastel shades against its background of snow-white icing. At the other end of the table a tray with coffee or chocolate set and cups, saucers and spoons placed conveniently near each set.

Piles of plates with tea napkins between each should be placed within reach of the guests, who may serve themselves (or be served) with sandwiches and small cakes. If salad is included, it may be served from the side table and will require forks and plates, in addition to the small plate used for sandwiches and cakes.

A number of dainty sandwich fillings suggest themselves for the wedding reception—chicken or pate de foie gras, lettuce or tomato, nut and cream cheese on brown bread or a filling of chopped dates, finely ground nuts and cream cheese between thin slices of white bread. Chicken or a fruit salad would be appropriate.

As to cakes—the daintiest of small cakes, as well as cut cakes, are suitable—and ice cream may be anything one wishes in flavor, or form.

As a charming finishing touch, there should be small boxes of bride's cake upon the hall table, that each guest may carry away an inspiration for the dream which on that night foretells his or her future.

And if you are skeptical about the appearance of this vision, we ask you—with a memory of a table as beautiful as the one shown to accompany the cake, how could the dream fail to materialize!

Accidental Hug Is
No Crime in Berlin

THE Berlin courts have held that a man who accidentally embraces his employer's wife cannot be dismissed on that account.

Eduard Rettelschlaeger, superintendent of mannequins in a millinery shop, admired Miss Gelstern, one of the mannequins. In temporary darkness, caused by a faulty electric light, he obeyed an impulse to embrace her, but when the light came on he found that he had made a bad mistake.

His employer's wife slapped him, and his employer fired him, but the court gave him damages.

possible she, the Old-Fashioned Woman; for she is in her grave and oh! the difference to him.

There she stays, there she rests, for all of modern women. Because, even though, after "After Dark," we at last understand the endearing young charm of CON-TRAST in the Old-Fashioned Woman more than ever we are convinced that we'd rather see than be one. To make the best of both worlds may require a certain tightrope agility, but it's such fun!

Fried Chicken a la Maryland

Sprinkle pieces of chicken with salt and pepper and then roll well in flour. Melt 1 cup of lard in a frying pan until very hot. Then add chicken, a few pieces at a time, and cook slowly, turning frequently, until chicken is tender and well browned. Arrange on a bed of hot, boiled hominy and garnish with parsley. Serve with or without sauce.

"ONLY CHILD" IS UNFORTUNATE

By Mrs. Agnes Lyne

FAMILIES grow smaller and smaller and more and more often we find the home that holds just one lonely chick of a child. He has a hard life, indeed, he scarcely has a fair chance of becoming a happy, self-reliant fellow at all.

It is about impossible for him to have a proper childhood. He is inevitably the center of the home and the object of concentrated attention. He is either nagged or spoiled. He is not free to lead his own life, occupied with the whole-some concerns of normal childhood.

When mother and father, grandmother and grandfather, aunts and uncles form an adoring group he gets an exaggerated idea of his own importance and of what is owing to him from people in general. Later on it will be difficult for him to face a relatively indifferent world. His selfishness and poor sportsmanship will make him one of those men who complain that luck is always against them.

When his parents are determined not to spoil him they are likely to make him conform to their standards to a degree that cripples his self-expression. He aims to adjust himself to dominating personalities rather than to work out his own interests and his own independence. He is a suppressed, unhappy youngster who lives his father's and mother's life, not his own.

The only child misses the continual, invaluable education that goes on when two or more children must learn to play together. He takes turns with toys, to share both mother's love and the candy dad brings home at night.

Parents can do a great deal to make up to the only child for his handicap. They can try to avoid both over indulgence and suppression. They can make elations behave themselves at the risk of offending them. They can—tend often that they too are children and play with their child at his own level. They can welcome into the backyard and nursery the children of the neighborhood. Best of all, if there is a nursery school or kindergarten in the neighborhood they can send him there to play with those who will be his brothers and sisters by proxy.

Deviled Haddock

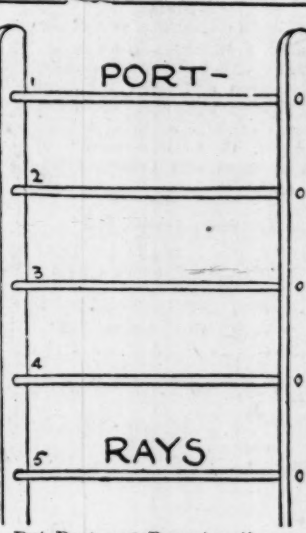

Two pounds haddock, two cups white sauce, one teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, two tablespoons minced onion, two tablespoons chopped parsley, one teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon paprika, one tablespoon melted butter. Boil fish until tender, then remove skin and bone. Add the other ingredients, mixing lightly so as not to break the fish too small. Turn into a buttered casserole, sprinkle top with crumbs and bake in a hot oven until nicely browned.

THE HUMAN BODY

By Dr. Logan Clendening.

SECOND WIND.

WE are not quite through with what goes on during exercise yet, and those who are interested may care to pursue the subject, although it is best to warn them it is somewhat technical.

Nothing that we have determined yet—the consumption of fuel and oxygen, the rise of heat, the production of poisons such as carbon dioxide, lactic acid, uric acid and urea—explain a phenomenon familiar to every athlete—second wind. A man running a race will get to the point where he is very much distressed—he can't seem to get enough air, and his muscles feel as if they were on the verge of collapse. But if he keeps on running a curious thing happens—he finds that although he is running just as hard as ever, he is quite comfortable and the sense of constriction in his chest and muscles is gone.

What has happened has been worked out by several physiologists. They use an athlete exercising on a stationary bicycle so that they can obtain samples of his blood and the air from his lungs at regular intervals. During the first period of exercise a number of products accumulate in the blood—carbon dioxide, lactic acid, all the acid reaction of the blood is increased. But some of these accumulate much more rapidly than others—carbon dioxide for instance. Then after a few minutes of every vigorous continuation of the exercise a readjustment occurs and each of the various products resumes more or less its normal relationships. This is the period when second wind begins. Probably some adjustment in the ability of the circulation also occurs.

Another phenomenon—fatigue—has been explained by the researches of Professor A. V. Hill, who won the Nobel prize for it. It is well known that if a strip of muscle is isolated and made to contract regularly for an indefinite period of time, it will contract to its fullest extent and exert the same amount of power up to a certain point, when it begins to show less and less contractile power. If it is rested and stimulation again begun, the contraction power is again resumed at maximum. Physiologists used to explain this by saying a "fatigue hormone" developed. But Professor Hill was able to prove it was simply lack of oxygen. If he could get enough oxygen to the muscle it would continue to contract at maximum indefinitely.

Facing the cruelest test a skin can meet

"Without smooth skin, no girl can be lovely,"
say leading directors

IT is the most precious charm a girl can have—clear velvety skin. All Hollywood agrees on this, leading stars and directors alike.

For there is something about lovely skin that sends a ripple of emotion through every heart.

And for the screen star, skin as smooth as a flower petal is a prime necessity.

"People open their hearts instantly to the appealing loveliness of exquisite skin," says Edward Sedgwick, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer director, expressing the experience of 39 Hollywood directors. "Every star knows how essential it is to have beautiful, smooth skin."

Consider these facts. Then, if you are seeking like results, get them in this scientific way. Every box of Marmola contains the formula, also the reasons for results. As fat departs and new vitality returns you will know exactly why. Try the method which for 29 years has brought such delightful results to so many. Do it now. You owe that to you self.

Marmola prescription tablets are sold by all druggists at $1 per box. If your druggist is out, he will get them at once from his jobber.

JOAN CRAWFORD finds this delicately fragrant white soap delightful both in this lovely bathroom and in her special dressing room on location. It keeps her skin in such marvelous condition.

The next time you see RUTH TAYLOR in a close-up, notice how softly smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps her fair skin. This little Paramount blonde says: "No art of make-up can deceive the close-up. I guard my skin as my most priceless possession and know that Lux Toilet Soap treats it gently."

9 out of 10 screen stars
guard their smooth skin this way

HOW well the lovely girls whose beauty stirs a million hearts every time they appear in a close-up, know that the skin must be kept rarely smooth!

Of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 442 depend on Lux Toilet Soap to guard their skin.

The very next time you see Joan Crawford or Ruth Taylor in the close-up, notice how captivatingly smooth Lux Toilet Soap keeps their skin.

Following the example of the stars, every one of the great film studios has made this soap the official soap in all dressing rooms.

If you haven't already discovered for yourself just how smooth this fragrant white soap keeps your skin, try it today.

You'll like it in your bath, too. It lathers so generously! Remember: 9 out of 10 screen stars use it.

LUX Toilet Soap

Luxury such as you have found only in fine French soaps at 50¢ and $1.00 the cake... now 10¢

The huge new incandescent "sun-spot" lights stream down heartlessly on the star's skin while the close-up is being taken. Any tiniest defect will be registered on the film, now more highly sensitized even than before. In consequence, of the 451 important actresses in Hollywood, including all stars, 442 guard the smoothness of their skin with Lux Toilet Soap.

JOAN CRAWFORD, fascinating Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star, meets the brilliancy of the new incandescent "sun-spot" close-up lights with perfect self-confidence—because her lovely face and arms and shoulders are kept beautifully smooth with Lux Toilet Soap.

"I have tried innumerable French soaps but never have I had anything like Lux Toilet Soap for keeping my skin fresh and smooth. And 'studio skin' is the all-important asset for the star who must face into the glaring lights of the close-up."

Dozens of Issues Carried Into New High Ground—Call Money Renewed at 6 Per Cent.

BACK LATE IN DAY

Buying of Some of the Old-Time Pacemakers Breaks Out Again in the Afternoon Trade.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—One of the strongest buying movements of the new year carried dozens of important issues into new high ground on the stock market today, following announcement of another gold shipment from London.

While it was stated that Federal Reserve brokers' loans will probably show a new record above $3,000,000, which was announced after the close of the market tomorrow, traders were less disposed to work over brokers' loans than in previous weeks, as the banks have been paying off their indebtedness at the reserve institutions, and a higher rediscount rate is regarded as highly unlikely with gold again starting to flow from London.

The gold shipment of $5,000,000 comes upon the heels of a shipment of $2,500,000, the first since autumn, announced yesterday. The fact that Montague Norman, Governor of the Bank of England, called for New York today, gave rise to reports that he would confer with Federal Reserve officials to means to stem the flow of the yellow metal in this direction.

An outgoing gold movement which would exceed in volume the open-market offerings in London would be regarded with misgivings in London, and Federal Reserve authorities are understood to oppose a flow of gold to New York which would embarrass the Bank of England or start another orgy of stock speculation.

A New York Exchange seat was sold today at a new record price of $625,000, an advance of $5000 over the previous sale.

News is Bullish Nameless.
Call money again renewed at 6 per cent, but the tone was firmer than yesterday, when it was available in the outside as low as 5 per cent time money remained firm.

The day's news was largely bullish, including the long predicted rise of 1/4 of a cent in copper prices to 17 cents per pound, domestic, R. H. Kresge Co. declared a stock dividend of 10 per cent. Iron Age reported that further advances in steel scrap prices and pressure for shipments on finished steel stand out as market developments of the week, although its composite finished steel price remained unchanged. The composite price for pig iron sagged 4 cents to $18.42 a ton.

High-grade stocks throughout the list developed strength in the first three hours or so. Commission house customers' rooms were crowded, and the public was said to be in the market again in a large way.

Chemical shares leaped forward. Union Carbide mounting 13 points to a record price at 222, but falling back to 214 1/2. Allied Chemical jumped 10 points to a new high at 241. Adams Express sold up 13 points.

U. S. Steel mounted about 2 points, fell back 4, then again started forward. General Motors (old) went forward more than 3 points. Greene Canavan led the supporters with a spurt of over 9 points, and American Smelting mounted more than 3. International Nickel surged ahead. It was announced that stock of more than 88 per cent of the voting power of Mond Nickel had been deposited under the merger plan.

Utilities Develop Strength.
Utilities developed strength. International Telephone, Electric Power and Light, Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas and Electric, and Brooklyn Union Gas mounted about 2 to 3 points. In the rails, Canadian Pacific mounted more than 7 points, while Delaware & Hudson, New York Central and St. Louis Southwestern climbed 3 points and more.

National Cash Register, General Electric, Westinghouse Electric, Johns-Manville, and Montgomery Ward were among issues climbing from 2 to 8 points. Great North-
